WOMAN INDICTED IN JURY "FIXING" CASE IN CHICAGO

Three Bills Returned After Attorney Admits Head of Union Paid $1000 to Have Juror Coached.

CASE GREW OUT OF BOMBING OUTRAGES

Lawyer's Boasts of Attempts to "Shake Down" Labor Leaders in Trials Said to Have Led to Arrest.

Social to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Mrs. Leon and Olson was named in indictments returned by the State grand jury today against William F. Quesse, president of the Flat Janitors' Union, and Theodore Loden, one of the jurors who disagreed at the recent "fixed" trial of Quesse and nine associates.

Three indictments were returned. One charges that Quesse and Loden conspired with Mrs. Olson and Attorney Fred C. Schmidt to corrupt a juror. Schmidt is accused of having been retained by the State's Attorney that he "fixed" the jury that tried Quesse and Loden for complicity in the recent bombing outrages. The second indictment alleges that Quesse conspired to corrupt Loden. The third charge that Quesse conspired with Attorney Schmidt and Leonard Olson to corrupt Loden by offering the latter a bribe of $400.

Quesse and his associates are reported to have fled from the city, and squads of detectives are searching for them today.

Schmidt, in his confession, is said to have admitted that he coached Loden so that he could answer questions properly, thereby being certain of a place on the Quesse jury. Loden was promised $1000 for a verdict of acquittal or a "hung" jury. The money, Schmidt is said to have confessed, was paid by Quesse and divided $600 to Loden and $400 to Schmidt.

Loden, it is alleged, "fixed" several other members of the jury, but after the verdict the attempts of Schmidt to obtain more money were unsuccessful and the other jurors sat nothing.

Schmidt's boasts of his attempts to "shake down" labor leaders are said to have led to his arrest.

PARIS NEWSPAPERS IGNORE LEGION'S PROTEST AT CARTOON

Serial Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, March 14.—All the Paris newspapers except one have ignored the request of the Paris Post of the American Legion to withdraw cartoonist Farnie's recent anti-American cartoon in Figaro. The editor of that Alfred Copus of the Figaro, has replied by expressing his agreement with the sentiment of the cartoon.

The drawing represented a doughty pushing aside Marianne as the latter is about to take a plate of gold from Germany. It was drawn, of course, apropos of the American demand for payment of the expenses of the army of occupation.

Mal Conner of the Legion at once circulated all the principal newspapers. He received no answer except this from the editor of Figaro.

Regarded as Barrier.
In most of the "what's the Matter With St. Louis" discussions of the last dozen years, it is said, someone has made complaint against the Union Station, and has praised the Chicago plan of a half dozen different passenger terminals, as keeping travelers moving about in the city and buying from local business concerns. No one has proposed any method of breaking up the present arrangement, and the conclusion generally has been that the Union Station arrangement is bad, but that no better should be placed about the station to keep travelers from getting out and seeing St. Louis. The new movie show it is indicated, is looked on as a restraining influence on sightseeing.

The directors of the Convention Bureau, meeting yesterday, with Morton J. May, president of the Associated Retailers, in attendance, decided to ask the Chamber of Commerce to take up the matter of the moving picture concession with the Terminal Association, which controls the station.

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—William C. McConnell, former State director of prohibition, was indicted by a Federal grand jury late today on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government in the illegal distribution of liquor.

AWARD TO GENERAL BRINGS OUT THAT HE WAS SPY IN SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—WAR DEPARTMENT secret that remained inviolate for 24 years—the secret of a Spanish-American War spy—was brought to light when the distinguished Service Cross was awarded to Brigadier General Henry H. Whitney, retired. Gen. Whitney was a Lieutenant, stationed in Porto Rico in 1898. He was sent through the Spanish lines disguised as a British sailor. He had memorized the information he wanted when a Cuban senorita educated in the United States asked a question.

"Damiano," replied the supposed English sailor.
"Diablos! Americano!" screeched the senorita. "He is an American spy. Seize him! British sailor speak not that word."

"It was a tight pinch," smiled the grizzled soldier in recounting the adventure, "but I got out of it."

PROTEST AGAINST MOVIE IN THE UNION STATION

Theater Lures Wait-Over Visitors From "Seeing St. Louis" Complaint of Retailers.

The latest complaint against the movies is that they keep visitors from seeing St. Louis.

The moving picture show which was opened recently in the Union Station is the cause of the complaint which comes from the Associated Retailers and the Convention Bureau.

Tells of Men's Search.

"They ordered me to put up my hands and face the wall. When I had my back turned they tied handkerchiefs over their mouths, and when I obeyed their command to turn around and face them one of them asked: 'Where have you got the stuff?' I made no reply and while one kept me covered with the revolver the other searched the rooms, turning over mattresses and scattering things about in closets and dressers in his search for valuable.

A case of jewelry belonging to Joseph Frackman, 223 Seventh Avenue, New York, which had been sent to me for disposition, was lying on a dresser in the room adjoining the sun parlor, and that was the last place the robber looked. He picked up the case and said to the man with the revolver: 'I've got it.'

"He was directed by his pal to search me, and he took $245 in money and a check for $100, signed by Abel Shupps from his pocket. He also took my gold watch, pearl scarf pin, platinum cuff-links and my jewelers' magnifying glass.

"I found this revolver in another room," said the robber who had conducted the search, "shall I keep it?"

Says Key Was Taken.

"Certainly," replied his pal, "and get his automobile key, too." The other fellow then took my automobile key from my pocket and as they backed out said he would leave the key to me in the mailbox, found it later on the wall near the mail box."

"Before they left the robbers tied me to a chair with a sheet and thrust a towel into my mouth, binding it with one end of the sheet. I worked myself free and telephoned to police headquarters."

Detectors inquired of other occupants of the apartment house, but no one had seen the robbers enter or leave the building.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by three creditors against the Jewelers' Exchange Jan. 26. It was declared that the firm's assets were $5000 and its liabilities $50,000.

Benjamin Grabiner, president of the Jewelers' Exchange, 699 Pine street, summoned policemen to his apartment at 5568 Pershing avenue, at 7 o'clock last night, and told them that he had been held up in the sun parlor of his home, and robbed of jewelry valued by him at $732, belonging to a New York concern, and money and other property of his own amounting to $645.

"My family has been out of town for several days," he told the police, "and the first thing I did when I reached home shortly after 6 p.m. was to open the windows. As I stepped into the sun parlor I was confronted by two men, both of whom covered their faces with their hands and one of them pointing a revolver at me. They must have entered the apartment after me, as I had left the front door unlocked. I am sure there was no one else present when I entered."

About 125,000 returns have been received this year, as compared with 135,000 last year. Of those received,

58 PER CENT DECREASE IN U.S. INCOME TAX RECEIPTS HERE

Total Received for St. Louis District, $25,000,000; Unemployment and Revised Exemptions the Cause of Loss.

This year's total Federal income tax receipts in the St. Louis district, which includes Eastern Missouri, now are estimated by experts in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at not more than $25,000,000, or about 42 per cent of last year's total, which was approximately $60,000,000.

The reason for the falling off is a decreased number of returns, through unemployment, and a lessening of the number of taxable returns, and of taxable amounts in other returns, chiefly through the increasing of exemptions for married men with less than $5000 net income, and the increasing of exemptions on children, for incomes of all sizes.

It was said at the Collector's office that payments under the excess profits tax this year were so small, compared with former years, as to be almost negligible.

about 55,000 returns are taxable, whereas last year 90,000 were taxable.

More than 30,000 taxable returns have been paid in full, while one-fourth payments were made, with the returns, by about 12,000 persons who report net incomes of less than $5000, and 4000 with returns of more than $5000, besides about 1000 corporation returns.

The approximate amount paid up to the close of the period for filing returns without penalty, ending the night of March 15, is figured at $18,000,000, including full payments and payments of one-fourth or a larger fraction of the tax.

CARPENTERS MAY CONFER ON WAGES WITH CONTRACTORS

R. L. Rinehart of Master Builders Says He Would Pay $1 an Hour to Settle Discussion.

WORKERS "TO REJECT 95-CENT SCALE"

Secretary Fritz of District Council So Declares and Statement Is Issued by the Unions.

A conference of representatives of the carpenters' unions and the general contractors of the Master Builders' Association probably will result from the announcement yesterday by the contractors that carpenters would be paid 95 cents an hour beginning April 1, a reduction of 45 cents an hour from the present scale of $1.25 an hour, or about 25 percent. Some union leaders and contractors said the outcome of such a conference would almost certainly be a compromise agreement for a wage of $1 an hour for carpenters.

R. L. Rinehart, president of the Master Builders' Association, said that he for one would be willing to pay a wage of $1 an hour in a contract with the carpenters for one year, provided the carpenters would agree to this wage without trouble and not prolong the discussion.

Mr. Rinehart said, "The building trades remain firm in their purpose to fix the arbitrary wage of 95 cents an hour."

About 2,200 carpenters in the building trades would be affected by any change in the wage scale. Of this number about 600 are now idle because of lack of building. J. L. Reed, secretary of the Carpenters' District Council, the central body of the carpenters' unions, said this was an unusual condition for this time of year.

Calls Action Arbitrary.

Reed, in a formal statement released to the Master Builders' association, said that the carpenters have refused an invitation to consider a proper wage adjustment and regarded the attitude of the Master Builders' Association as arbitrary and inconsiderate.

Amplifying the formal statement, Reed said that the union carpenters would not accept 95 cents an hour as an arbitrary wage and that the building trades unions would not allow them to work for it. He added that the carpenters' leaders would meet representatives of the builders and contractors at an early date and go fully into the wage question but would not initiate the movement.

Richter, and other general contractors and the architects also believe that if the carpenters agree to work for $1 an hour, the other unions of the building trades which are struggling to hold the $1.25 an hour wage would be willing to accept immediate wage reductions, and that the St. Louis building program, aggregating $15,000,000 to $16,000,000 large projects that is held up by high costs could be started at once.

Statement by Carpenters.

The text of the statement from the Carpenters' District Council, signed by Fritz, is as follows:

"The Master Builders, with Mr. R. L. Rinehart of the Westlake Construction Co. as spokesman, have announced a reduction in the wages of the St. Louis carpenters from $1.25 to 95 cents per hour.

The carpenters were not consulted in regard to this announcement, although they have a very vital interest and have never received an invitation to consider matters of interest to the building industry. Richter has never refused to consider a proper wage adjustment, even though there is no element of gain in the scale at present existing. The carpenter is injured to working and self-denial, however, and if convinced that it would benefit the people of St. Louis generally he will not lag behind any other men concerned in the making of wages.

The statement has been made repeatedly during the last year that there was a deadlock in the building business in St. Louis, and the demand has been made on the carpenters and other building mechanics to make the recession necessary to revive building. The facts are that, leaving out of consideration the abnormal war-time years, the volume of work and percentage of employment during the past winter was above the average for the past 50 years, which should dispose of the claim above a deadlock.

"We feel that, however sincere the Master Builders may be in their present movement, they have taken the wrong course to remedy the evils that bulk so large in their vision and have assumed an authority as unarranted under the circumstances, as it is un-American in principle. If, however, the fact is established that small group of contractors controlling but a minor portion of the work in St. Louis can get together and fix arbitrarily the wages of thousands of our most valuable workers, that we can only bid adieu to the illusion we have cherished that we were free citizens with a right to a voice in determining the conditions under which we shall live.

The carpenter asks for no special privilege, he knows what he is worth, and while desiring only peace and work, is still a good enough American to resist to the utmost any invasion of his rights."

GIRL, 5, SKIPPING ROPE, KILLED BY A STREET CAR

Heloice Engle Knocked Down in Front of Home; Skull Fractured and Arm Crushed Under Wheels.

Heloice Engle, 5 years old, skipping a rope in front of her home, 204 Kosuth avenue, yesterday afternoon, skipped in front of a westbound Lee Avenue car, and was struck and fatally injured.

She died at the Christian Hospital, Grand Avenue and Palm street, several hours later when physicians were performing an operation in an effort to save her life. The child was the daughter of Clyde Engle.

Policeman George Roosman, who was riding on the sand in the front of the car, reported that the motorman, Herman F. Streib, of 4561 Newport avenue, was unable to bring the car to a stop in time to avoid striking the child. Her skull was fractured and one arm was mutilated by the car wheels. She was placed in the automobile of Mrs. John Bentzen of 3118 North Grand Avenue, and taken to the hospital.

Richter, his son, August Jr., and three Italians who were found in the shed, were arrested and are being held on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Reed Amendments Beaten.

Another amendment by Senator Reed, providing that the signatories would in "no respect be bound" by decisions reached after consultation under article 2 was rejected.

Reed's amendment received only four irreconcilable votes from the Republican side and was defeated, 29 to 62.

The Senate then rejected, 27 to 60, another reservation declaring that "it being the intention of the United States to grant full and complete independence to the Philippines Islands within 10 years." The independence and integrity of the islands shall be respected thereafter.

The Senate then rejected, 27 to 65, an amendment by Reed, stating that "no nation should be in any manner obligated to do any act of war" because of decisions rendered under the treaty.

The Senate voted down, 26 to 65, an amendment by Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, providing that only "Pacific" methods could be considered by the four Powers when they meet in conference as a result of outside oppression. Senator Poinsett, Republican, Washington, joined the four Republican irreconcilables in supporting the amendment. Ten Democrats voted against it.

The amendment was defeated, 29 to 64, four Republicans supporting and 10 Democrats opposing it.

Third Proposal Defeated.

Reed then offered and the Senate rejected an amendment which would incorporate in the treaty the language of the League of Nations covenant permitting any signatory to withdraw on two years' notice.

This time the Senate divided, 28 to 65, with four Republicans voting in the affirmative and nine Democrats in the negative.

Article 3 is Approved.

Article 3, which contains only the stipulations as to the life and termination of the treaty, was approved in committee of the whole, 67 to 24. Opposition leaders said the division did not represent the strength that would be shown on final ratification since many Senators based their opposition on other sections of the treaty.

The amendment was defeated, 29 to 64, four Republicans supporting and 10 Democrats opposing it.

Fourth Article Defeated.

In the question of agreeing in committee of the whole to article 2, on which opponents of the treaty have centered their fight, 66 Senators voted in the affirmative and 28 in the negative. Eleven Democrats, Senators Broussard, Dial, Fletcher, Kendrick, Myers, Owen, Pomerene, Ransdell, Trammell, Underwood and Williams, voted against it.

The fourth and final article, containing the usual perfunctory provisions for exchange of ratification, was agreed to, 73 to 8.

13 Roll Calls Taken.

That ended the opportunity for offering amendments and the Senate began consideration of proposed reservations. Thirteen roll calls had been taken in two hours.

The first resolution to come before the Senate proposed to admit outside Powers to conferences affecting their interests. It was offered by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, and promptly was voted down. The vote was 36 to 55, representing the largest vote that yet had been cast to qualify the ratification. Five Republicans—Borah, Idaho; La Follette, Norris, Johnson and La Follette, voted for the reservations while only three Democrats—Underwood, Myers and Williams, stood against it.

The fourth and final article, containing the usual perfunctory provisions for exchange of ratification, was agreed to, 73 to 8.

The first resolution to come before the Senate proposed to admit outside Powers to conferences affecting their interests. It was offered by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, and promptly was voted down. The vote was 36 to 55, representing the largest vote that yet had been cast to qualify the ratification. Five Republicans—Borah, Idaho; La Follette, Norris, Johnson and La Follette, voted for the reservations while only three Democrats—Underwood, Myers and Williams, stood against it.

The fourth and final article, containing the usual perfunctory provisions for exchange of ratification, was agreed to, 73 to 8.

FRIDAY
MARCH 24, 1932'ALIBI TO BE DEFENSE OF TEX RICKARD'

Lawyer for Sports' Promoter Outlines Answer to Girl's Charges.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Opening the defense of Tex Rickard, charged with criminally assaulting Sarah Schoenfeld, 15 years old, counsel for the sports promoter today told the jury that a perfect alibi would be proved for Nov. 12, 1931, the day of the alleged offense.

Rickard's counsel denied that the promoter ever had gone motoring with either Sarah or Nellie Gasko.

Steuer said his client knew nothing of the two girls except that Sarah had once come to Madison Square Garden with her mother to enlist his aid in obtaining the release of her brother, imprisoned in Milwaukee.

Steuer said that the prosecution would have to prove the offense occurred on the night of Nov. 12, 1931, between 7:30 o'clock and 10 o'clock according to the story told by the girls.

Testimony for Rickard Outlined.

Steuer said he would show that in the morning Rickard went to the Garden. That at 1:30 o'clock he went to the polo grounds to watch the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania football game, accompanied by his secretary and publicity manager. That he had attended the Garden in preparation for a dance to take place there that night. That he had returned home for dinner with Mrs. Rickard, as will be proven by the testimony of a young woman who had been the Rickards' week-end guest, that Mrs. Rickard had been taken ill and a physician summoned, that later he had taken his guest and another woman to the dance at the Garden and then returned home.

Steuer also set forth that the two girls, Misses Gasko and Nellie, Forty-seventh street, mentioned in connection with the case, had been rented by Rickard while he was arranging the Dempsey-Willard fight in Toledo, to store his liquor, because he saw prohibition coming. Rickard, Steuer said, had never been in the suites in his life, and had gone to the apartment houses themselves only twice, to ascertain from the janitor that his callers were O.K.

Justice Wasserroogel announced last night that he had decided to bar male spectators as well as women from the remaining sessions of the trial.

Women were barred at the outset because of the nature of the testimony, but capacity male audiences have been admitted daily to the courtroom. The order was issued after several society women, who were refused admittance, protested against "discrimination."

The Justice Genie motion by the defense to dismiss three charges after the State had closed its case yesterday.

Testimony of Surgeon.

Dr. William Travis Gibbs, surgeon to the Children's Aid Society, testified yesterday he had examined the Schoenfeld girl last month and found she had been assaulted.

Most of the day Nellie Gasko, 15-year-old chum of Sarah Schoenfeld, was under cross-examination. She said Sarah had a very poor memory and that in rehearsals at the society headquarters she "helped her along to remember some things" they both had testified to regarding their relations with the promoter. Nellie admitted a number of previous delinquencies and described experiences in forging checks, stealing, playing truant and other escapades.

Miss Anna Birch, janitor of the apartment house at West Forty-seventh street, in which the attack was alleged to have taken place, testified that after Rickard's arrest a stranger had led him to Madison Square Garden and that there, Rickard, charging that someone was trying to "frame" him, had told him that if he knew anything to keep quiet.

The janitor said he had seen Rickard outside the Forty-seventh street apartment of the promoter's friend, Walter Fields, on four or five occasions, but swore he never saw him inside. Later he admitted having noticed Rickard in the vestibule one afternoon.

Visited by Rickard.

In their conversation in the garden, after Rickard's arrest, Birch said the promoter asked him if he had seen him (Rickard) at either of the apartment houses. At first he told of answering "yes" but later on, he said:

"I think I told him I hadn't seen him there."

On cross-examination the witness said Rickard had never directly asked him to lie. He said Fields had given him tickets to boxing bouts at the Garden several times.

COURT ALLOWS WOMAN TO KEEP RING OF FORMER ENGAGEMENT

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The final act of a shattered love romance of five years ago was enacted in the Circuit Court of Pike County, at Pikeville, Ky., yesterday, when a jury awarded to Mrs. Irene Fowler a diamond engagement ring given to her by John W. Thornbury.

Mrs. Fowler, who was Miss Irene George at the time, kept the ring.

when the engagement was broken, port of her dental.

Later both contracted other attachments and married.

Thornbury, who is a traveling salesman, some time afterwards sued to recover the ring and other gifts he had made to Miss George. During their courtship, alleging that there was an agreement between them that the ring was to be returned to the donor if the engagement was ever broken.

In response to Thornbury's petition,

Mrs. Fowler denied this allegation, and produced a letter received after the engagement was broken in support of her denial.

Mrs. Fowler appeared in court when the ring was given to the jury, with the ring in her pocket, ready to comply with the verdict of the court.

The decision of the jury, however, was favorable to the defendant, awarding the ring to Mrs. Fowler and suspending the verdict of the lower court, in which the suit was filed five years ago. Only the ring was sued for in the action. Thornbury, following his "break" with Miss George, was married to Miss Justice of Catlettsburg, Ky.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN CRANE AND HIS FORMER WIFE REPORTED

Cost Rican Beauty Agrees It Is Said, to Provide Bond to Protect Child at Court's Order.

CHICAGO, March 24.—An agreement in the legal battle between Herbert C. Crane and his former wife, Miss Elida Piza, Costa Rican beauty, was said to have been reached by attorneys representing the principals in the case, last night. The agreement in which three principal points are set forth will be signed next Thursday.

According to the agreement, Miss Piza will give $25,000 bond to either keep Antonio Raphael Crane, 2-year-old son, in the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court or produce him in court on order.

The second point sets forth that Crane will pay approximately $74,000, representing the unpaid part of the $100,000 alimony award that went with the divorce, plus with interest, while the third clause declares Miss Piza, by acceptance of $74,000, will waive all other claims against Crane.

The former Mrs. Crane is in a hospital at Geneva, Ill., because of heart trouble. Her sister, who has been with her, left for New York today to bring back the boy.

According to the agreement, Miss Piza will give $25,000 bond to either keep Antonio Raphael Crane, 2-year-old son, in the jurisdiction of the Circuit Court or produce him in court on order.

WIDOW OF MAN WHO DIED AFTER DRINKING DENIED INSURANCE

A jury in Circuit Judge Klein's court yesterday decided that the death of William H. Dayton, a man's insurance agent, on Jan. 18, 1920, at Hotel Stover, was from natural causes, and refused to allow a recovery on a $2,500 accident insurance policy carried by him in favor of his wife, Mrs. Lydia M. Dayton, in the Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.

It was testified that Dayton and several friends had been at the hotel for two days and consumed considerable liquor, the occasion being the advent of constitutional prohibition which prompted Dayton to remark: "The end of the world has come," it was testified. Mrs. Dayton contended that her husband was poisoned by drinking whisky with wood alcohol in it, but the insurance company stated that his companions drank from the same bottle and did not suffer serious consequences. The defense was that Dayton died from apoplexy.

CLASH OF CRITICS MARKS HEARING OF "VIRTUE" STATUE

Art Work Proposed for City Hall Park, in New York, Evokes Praise and Censure at "Trial" Before Mayor.

SCULPTURE IS TERMED AN INSULT TO WOMEN

Woman Says "Civic Virtue" Might Represent "Triumph of Subway Guard Over Prone Passengers in Rush Hour."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The women have two weeks more in which to compete in the civic "civic virtue" in the $10,000 MacMonnies statue proposed for City Hall Park, in which Virtue is represented by the male of the species standing with his foot on the neck of a woman.

Mayor Hylan's hearing Wednesday was tempestuous, but the women claim it was a cloud "no bigger than a man's hand" compared to the storm that will break a fortnight hence. During this fortnight the women are to muster all their forces, and with national support from all parts of the country, they are confident they can force a change of design in "Civic Virtue," which will show man and woman standing side by side equal in virtue—or equal in temptation, whichever way you care to put it.

Mrs. Elizabeth King Black of the National Woman's party has come out in favor of the statue as it is. But some sources here believe it to be of the back-handed variety. Going into Greek mythology for some of her arguments, Mrs. Black says that Medusa fell because "she made a god of a man." She adds that "Adam must have been a bit of a 'mamboop'" and that it was "lucky woman was created from a bone in a man's side instead of in his head."

"Man today is casting woman into the gutter, the same as usual," she avows, and therefore the MacMonnies group will be nothing out of the ordinary.

Women or Mermaids?

One of the great issues growing out of the "Civic Virtue" dispute has to do with the moot question as to whether the feminine figures of the group are merely women or mermaids.

This phase of the question naturally has turned the discussion to fish. Mrs. Black says she wants the statue erected to signify that women must not allow men to make "poor fish" of them any longer.

Mrs. Ida Osborne of the Twenty-first Assembly District Association shudders at the effect that the statue may have upon the future generation.

"As for saying that the women are not women, but only mermaids," she adds. "I never heard that a fish was made of a temptation to a man."

"We are not living in the days of motherly figures," Mrs. Eliza K. Boole, State head and national vice-president of the W. C. T. U., said. "And civic virtue is not a myth, so why attempt to lug in mermaids."

In this statue the man is represented as a splendid type, a little prehistoric, perhaps, but the women are the worst type of womanhood. It is a medieval idea of woman, and an insult to women in civic life today."

The women, however, are not having all the say about the MacMonnies group. Men are rushing to the rescue. Robert Aitken, former member of the Art Commission, declares: "Men defend work."

"This statue is the greatest piece of work of art in this country."

William de L. Dodge, cultural decorator, avows that "Civic Virtue" is a wonderful art," and he adds: "Remember the world at first refused to accept the Bachanum."

When the "civic virtue" disturbance began no one thought it ever would involve the Four-Power treaty and the Republican party, but it has done both. As Mayor Hylan's initial hearing was drawing to a close, Mrs. Rooney, representing the Washington Heights Woman's Civic Club, suggested facetiously that the statue be sold to the Federal Government.

"Then," she explained, "we could say that the figure underneath represented the people of the United States and the figure on top the Four-Power treaty, which grew stronger and stronger as the people grew weaker."

Remarks Were Hissed.

At this point Mrs. Rooney was interrupted by hisses, which came from the women, and made the men smile. Mrs. Rooney thereupon admitted that perhaps the male figure more nearly represented the triumph of a subway guard over the prone passengers in the rush hour.

Boston eventually was drawn into the discussion, for it was pointed out that the Hush which received MacMonnies' "Bacchus" several years ago but Boston now guards its woman devotee of Bacchus as the treasure of its museum.

Mayor Hylan, the Park Commission and the Board of Estimate now have heard "civic virtue" attacked and defended with terms from "an outrage" to "a masterpiece," from "a sculptural slur upon femininity" to "the highest conception of art" (Chicago, 1872).

SURVEY OF COAL SITUATION MADE BY THE OPERATORS

Retailers Report Bituminous Stock for 22, Anthracite for About 48 Days.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—In view of the impending coal strike, the National Coal Association, an organization of bituminous operators, has made a survey of the coal situation, a summary of which is as follows:

Retailers report bituminous stocks to cover an average demand of 22 days and anthracite stocks to cover an average demand of 48 days. Public utilities and railroads report stocks sufficient to cover a demand of from 50 to 120 days. Industries reports stocks to cover a demand of from 25 to 125 days. Coal operators say a demand will be for about 8,000,000 tons of coal a week, that nonunion mines can supply at least 6,000,000 tons and that a deficit of 2,000,000 tons weekly would result. Stocks of coal, according to estimates, will run from 25,000,000 to 60,000,000 tons, on a supply which would carry over 27 to 30 days. Operators point out, however, that stocks cannot fall below 20,000,000 tons without causing some severe trouble because of uneven distribution.

Railroads report as follows: Pennsylvania, for 50 days, R. & O. 64 L. C. 100, D. L. 90, and N. Y. C. 78.

Slayer Suspect Denied Bond.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., March 24.—Fred M. McClure, former newspaper circulation manager of El Paso, Okla., Tucson, Ariz., and El Paso, charged with murdering his former stepmother, Miss Louise Frenzel, 22, on March 11, was denied bond by Justice R. B. Rawlings today and remanded to the county jail after a preliminary hearing.

SEARCH FROM AIR FOR PLANE MISSING OFF FLORIDA COAST

"Miss Miami" Disappeared After Leaving Miami for Bimini Carrying Six Persons

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—Airmen from Key West and Miami today began a search over every square foot of water and every cove in the many keys that rim the Florida coast and the several islands of the Bahama group for the missing airplane, "Miss Miami," which disappeared after leaving here at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday morning with five passengers and a pilot bound for Bimini.

A fishing party returning last night from a trip to the southern keys, reported today they had heard an airplane motor at Angel Key, about 20 miles south, but not knowing that a plane had been lost they made no effort to identify it. In the hope that this may be the Miss Miami, a plane was dispatched for Angel Key early today to make a thorough search.

The Miss Miami was camouflaged during the war, having been used as a naval plane, and this paint had never been removed, thereby making it all the harder for the searchers trying to locate it.

The Miss Miami was piloted by Robert Moore and carried as passengers Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. August Brule, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. J. S. Dickson of Memphis, Tenn.

HANGING OF NEGRESS STAYED

Appeal Granted Woman Accused of Chopping Husband to Pieces.

By the Associated Press.

CENTERVILLE, Ala., March 24.—A large crowd assembled here today failed to see Nellie Bestor hanged. A few hours before the time set for the execution attorneys for the condemned woman obtained an order granting an appeal to the Supreme Court. The young negress was convicted of slaying her husband, whose body she chopped to pieces and attempted to cremate, according to the testimony. The State Board of Pardon and the Governor refused to interfere in the case.

No woman has been hanged in the State since 1888.

UNDERWRITERS PLACE CHICAGO FIRE BLAME

Report Emphasizes Delay Between Origin of Blaze and Arrival of First Fighters.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, March 24.—Blame for the $2,000,000 fire which destroyed a block of downtown business buildings last week was placed on the delay between the origin of the fire and arrival of the first fire-fighting unit, in a preliminary report of the Chicago Board of Underwriters, made today. Whether this delay was due to slowness in discovering the fire or tardiness of the Fire Department, was not stated.

The report stated that the automatic sprinkler system in the Atlantic Building, graded as 90 per cent standard, worked, but radiation of the heat through wire glass windows caused a large number of sprinkler heads to open, draining the 22,000 gallons stored in the reservoirs and pressure tanks. The flames destroyed both the Aon and the Atlantic Buildings, leaping from the former to the latter.

So intense was the heat of the flames, according to the report, that the radiation passed through wire glass windows, setting off sprinkling systems in nearby buildings before they had actually been attacked by the flames and then melting the glass "like molasses," and also the brass fixtures.

700 AMERICAN COLLEGES TO AID LOUVAIN LIBRARY FUND

Week's Campaign for $1,000,000 to Replace Belgian Structure to Start April 2.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
NEW YORK, March 22.—Seven hundred American colleges will start on Monday, April 2, in a week's drive to complete a fund of $1,000,000 for the erection of a library at the Belgian University of Louvain to take the place of the historic structure destroyed by German armies.

A new national committee of the United States for the restoration of the University of Louvain has been organized and includes educators, high churchmen of all denominations and prominent business men in all parts of the country. The campaign will be under the active direction of an executive committee whose members are President Franklin D. Roosevelt; Murray Butler of Columbia University; chairmen: Archibald Patrick J. Hayes, Bishop William T. Manning; Justice Victor J. Dowling; Herbert Putman, Librarian of Congress; George Barr Baker; Samuel R. Berton and Thomas W. Lamont.

The national committee, in addition to its work among the colleges, will endeavor to secure outside subscriptions. The previous American campaign yielded only about $185,000, and an appeal to the American people, signed by Dr. Butler and his colleagues, the nation was reminded of its duty to restore the Louvain Library. The committee requests that subscriptions be sent to the Secretary, Henry S. Haskell, 40 West 117th street, New York.

PROPOSED VISIT OF EINSTEIN TO PARIS CAUSES APPREHENSION

French Scientists Now Sorry They Invited German Savant to Come and Explain His Theory.

(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, March 24.—The proposed visit of Prof. Albert Einstein to Paris has raised a storm in a tea cup, the tea cup being scholastic circles at the French Capital. The decision to invite the German savant to give six lectures at the Collège de France on his theory of relativity was taken by a vote of the 59 professors comprising the college, with the narrow majority of two.

After voting, the professors became scared at the possible consequences of their initiative and tried to keep the visit secret from the general public. Arrangements were made for Einstein's lectures to be given on camera, so to speak, before a select audience of persons individually invited.

The secret leaked out, however, and now university circles are in a worse state than ever and hostile popular manifestations when the famous German scientist comes to Paris, despite the fact that he is a naturalized Swiss citizen. Indeed, it is said they would be much relieved if he found an excuse for deferring his visit.

DR. SHELTON WAS SLAIN BY ACCIDENT, ASSOCIATE THINKS

J. C. Ogden, Missionary, Believes He May Have Fallen When Robbers Ambushed Guard in Tibet.

SPENT 18 YEARS WITH DOCTOR IN FAR EAST

Saw Physician Just Before He Was to Start for Lhasa, but Reached U. S. Before Hearing of Death.

J. C. Ogden, school teacher in the Christian church mission at Batang, Tibet, in which Dr. Albert Leroy Shelton was physician, expressed the belief upon his arrival at the United Christian Missionary Society here yesterday that Dr. Shelton's death last Feb. 17 at the hands of robbers was an accidental, not a deliberate act.

He believes further that Dr. Shelton was killed after he had stayed for Lhasa, capital city of the Tibetans, whose gates never have opened to Christian missionaries—but which were about to open to Dr. Shelton at the command of the Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of the country, in recognition of his medical service to wounded Tibetan soldiers.

The missionaries' headquarters are at Fifteenth and Locust streets; there has been no account of Dr. Shelton's death except a nine-word cablegram on March 4.

Ogden was associated with Dr. Shelton during 18 of the 19 years which the noted medical missionary spent at the most remote outpost of Christendom, 45 days into the interior of China.

Dr. Shelton was killed about 40 days after his return from a furlough trip in the United States. Ogden met him as he was returning to his work, 42 days ago, at Batang, while Ogden himself was walking out from Batang to begin a furlough. The point of their meeting was near the spot where in 1920 Dr. Shelton was captured by robbers and held for ransom for 60 days escaping.

Had Planned Journey to Lhasa.

Ogden says that his knowledge of the country and its people makes it possible to conjecture closely the manner of Dr. Shelton's death. "I had assembled all his equipment, including animals and men, for his long journey to Lhasa," Ogden said. "Shelton was bringing the medical equipment he had to take in. There was no question why he should have delayed his start, and knowing his eagerness to be on his way, his life's goal. I believe that the 40 days elapsing between his probable arrival at Batang and the day of his death, he had started his journey."

"An area about the size of the State of Kansas surrounding and to the west of Batang has for many years been contested by the Chinese and Tibetans. The inhabitants are Tibetans, but the Chinese have nominal control and rule with a comparatively small number of officials and soldiers. The Chinese garrison at Batang is 200 men.

Robbers Made War on Chinese.

The robber bands which are not robbers in the American sense, but guerrillas making constant warfare on the Chinese, commonly single out the enemies for attack. Whenever they descend upon towns, it usually is in search of guns and ammunition, not treasure. When they attack on the road, it is to secure arms. We have many times been visited by robber bands at Batang. They have attacked the town once with a force of 1400 men, but they never have succeeded in getting into the mission buildings and houses on the grounds, but nothing has ever been taken. It is not uncommon for these robbers when they lose mail to take everything addressed to the Chinese, but to sort up our mail and send it on."

"It is inconceivable that they would deliberately kill Shelton. He was the most beloved man in all the district. He was a work of help and mercy.

Usually Provided With Guard.

"However much as we protested, we reluctantly left the mission for a journey except under escort of Chinese soldiers. We had always felt we would be safer without the soldiers for they are signal for attack by the robbers to get their arms.

If Shelton was off for Lhasa, the Chinese undoubtedly insisted on giving him a military guard to start him off. Probably the guard was ambushed by robbers and Shelton was accidentally killed in the firing."

Ogden is a shrinking little man, who eyes with tears as he talks of Shelton. "Any time we could have been spared, but Shelton Heard News at Rason, N. M.

He related the circumstances under which he learned of the death of his associate. He was traveling overland in an automobile and had reached Raton, N. M., after dusk on Sunday, March 5. He came upon a Christian Church in which services were in progress and went in, slipping into a rear seat.

The preachers were relating the great work of Shelton in Tibet and the praise made Ogden's associate. "Now that Shelton is dead," the preacher continued, "God will take down Ogden's back." At the conclusion of the service, he stood near the door waiting for the minister to complete his good-night to the congregation.

PLAN TO PAY NIGHT AND DAY DEPOSITORS

State Commissioner Working on Scheme He Says Would Settle in Full.

State Commissioner of Finance Hughes said today that he was working upon a plan of reorganization for the Night and Day Bank under which the institution might be opened soon and pay depositors in full. This plan is independent of the attempt of the Depositors' Committee to close the bank.

It is known that Hughes has held conferences with Sam B. Jeffries, J. M. Lashley and E. W. Forstel, attorneys who represent a syndicate which is said to be willing to take over the bank under favorable circumstances.

Representatives of this syndicate recently made a survey of the bank's condition and reported that shortage and "bad paper" would total $75,000. Of this amount $75,000 is represented by cash items, memora by A. Meisinger, former cashier. The remainder is represented by questionable loans on which there undoubtedly would be a salvage.

Hughes refused to say that this syndicate was participating in his plan. "My plan is very practical and I hope to see depositors receive dollar for dollar if men with real money will get behind it," he said.

Hughes has given those behind his plan a promise that he will allow them until April 20 to complete arrangements. He refused to outline the method under which the reorganization would be accomplished.

Meanwhile, members of the Depositors' Committee are preparing a plan which they will submit to Hughes soon. The committee is awaiting action of the former board of directors, members of which have indicated that they would advance a sum, at one time $200,000, toward the bank's assets in the event of a reorganization.

It was learned today that the failure of Meisinger to record a $25,000 mortgage on 29 automobiles owned by the now bankrupt Southern Motor Co. would result in a loss to the bank of nearly the entire amount. The automobiles were sold recently by Receiver W. W. Nall for about $4000, but the Night and Day Bank cannot claim that sum because the mortgages were not recorded and do not represent a prior claim. The Southern Motor Co. now has approximately $13,000 in assets to satisfy nearly $25,000 in liabilities, according to C. W. Wagner, attorney for the receiver.

HITCH IN WAY OF RECOGNITION OF MEXICO ONE OF PROCEEDINGS

President So Tells Former Director of Pan-American Union in Letter.

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, March 24.—The only hitch in restoring friendly relations between the United States and Mexico is one of proceedings, declares President Harding in a letter to John Barrett, former Director-General of the Pan-American Union, made public last night by Barrett, with permission of the White House. The President's letter, dated March 21, was in reply to one addressed to him by Barrett in which the latter laid before Harding a summary of answers received from 141 representative Latin-American countries in reply to the question asked of 250 as to what they believed the United States might do in its own initiative to promote Pan-American friendship. Barrett advised the President that among other things, the following recommendation, stated in composite, summarized terms, had been made by the Latin-Americans:

Early recognition of Mexico by the United States on a basis consistent with the natural and unexaggerated dignity, sovereignty and rights of both nations, with concessions, if necessary, on the part of both, inspired by that same spirit of mutual cooperation and co-operation which characterized the United States and other governments at the recent arms conference.

In his reply, Mr. Harding said: "I am not at all surprised at the expression of sentiment in the Latin-American republics which your letter conveys. As a matter of fact, we feel that way here in the capital of our own republic. There is really no difference of opinion as to what is necessary to restore former friendly relations between our own republic and that of Mexico. We only hope anywhere is one of proceedings. Undoubtedly the two countries are of the same kind, except that we cannot arrive at a program which cures the whole situation in one complete program which is to be executed at one time."

DR. SHELTON WAS SLAIN BY ACCIDENT, ASSOCIATE THINKS

With Shelton, he asked the minister where he had heard that Shelton was dead. The minister named a news item in a Denver paper.

Ogden gave a sigh of relief. Of course, Shelton was not dead. No one would kill Shelton. So he continued his journey toward St. Louis. Reaching Garden City, Kan., he became snowbound and went to a telegraph office to send a message to the missionary headquarters here.

The telegraph operator read the signature and looked at it curiously. He had read Shelton's book, "Pioneering in Tibet," and Ogden is mentioned many times in it.

"Aren't you the man who was with Shelton?" the telegrapher asked.

"Did you know Shelton was dead?" Ogden told him he had "heard a rumor that couldn't be true. The telegrapher took him to a Christian Church minister who had been notified by the Missionary Society of its cablegram signed "Shelton."

Hardy was Shelton's assistant. Ogden knew that Shelton was dead. A missionary gives seven years in the field for a furlough of one. Ogden was going to his home in Norwood, O., for his first visit in seven years.

He wired the Missionary Society.

"Shelton's dead. We'll be needed

now."

He returned to the telegraph of-

ice. "Can't we go back at once?"

he wired the Missionary Society.

"Shelton's dead. We'll be needed

now."

GOOD mayonnaise depends upon two things—the finest materials and a long, hard beating.

To have the proper smoothness, mayonnaise should be beaten for a very long time. Good mayonnaise is really hard work.

We discovered quite accidentally that our cook made delicious mayonnaise. She uses the finest ingredients and beats them by electricity to an irresistible fluffiness and smoothness. Now she not only makes it for our salads but for thousands of our customers. Honestly, you've never tasted such mayonnaise. Two sizes—29 cents and 49 cents.

OLIVE AT TENTH

MOVING PICTURE HOUSE CLOSED BY M'KELVEY

Proprietor of Eureka Theater Charges Action Was Due to Personal Grudge.

The Eureka Theater, a neighborhood movie show, at 2001 East Oberlin Avenue, has been closed by Director of Public Safety Mc'Kelvey, following an inspection of the place made by deputies of his office. Mc'Kelvey said the deputies reported the fire hazard to be great and that the building generally was unsafe.

The deputies in their reports stated supports for the floors are insufficient; the roof and supports are in bad condition; a brick chimney is out of plumb; the interior is lined with composition wall board; seats are not fixed to the floor and a furnace has been placed in an excavation in the basement without sufficient protection to the flooring above it.

Personal Grudge Charged

James M. Drake, proprietor of the theater, said Mc'Kelvey charged the theater because of a personal grudge Mc'Kelvey holds against him. He said about three weeks ago, while he was manager of a theater in the 4900 block on Olive street, Mc'Kelvey "bawled him out" because a door leading to the street did not open easily.

"At that time, Mc'Kelvey seized me by the arm and ordered me to open the door," Drake said. "I told him to request me in a more polite tone and I would do so. He went out saying he would see about me. I remained in the lobby and said there is to make good what he said then."

"The place has been used for a movie show and skating ring for 14 years. If it is unsafe now, after I have had the place only a month and have spent more than $1,000 fixing it up, why wasn't it unsafe before? I don't want to run the place as a movie show if it is unsafe, but I don't believe it is."

Placards Placed on Doors

Drake said large placards had been placed on the doors of the place, informing passersby that the place was "unsafe and dangerous." Mc'Kelvey gave permission for these signs to be torn down yesterday, after the owner of the building had remonstrated with him, Drake said.

The inspection of the Eureka did not begin until last Friday and the place was not closed until Wednesday at 5:30 p.m., just exactly a half hour after the last bit of paint had been put on the outside of the building in the work I had done to improve it, Drake stated. "I am now trying to get some contractor to check up on what Mc'Kelvey's men said they found."

P. J. Wieser, a dentist, who owns the place, said Mc'Kelvey had told him he would not allow a picture show to be operated in the building again. He said he asked Mc'Kelvey what he could do to fix the building to meet Mc'Kelvey's requirements, and that the director gave him no answer.

Statement by Mc'Kelvey

Mc'Kelvey, in discussing Drake's charge, said he went to the theater of which Drake was manager three weeks ago and found the front exit doors locked. He said when he told Drake to open the door, Drake told him to use one of the other doors. Mc'Kelvey informed the owner of the theater what had transpired and announced he would have an information issued against Drake. Drake was discharged, however, and he did not do this, Mc'Kelvey stated. He denied there is any personal feeling in the closing of the Eureka Theater and said he did not know Drake was proprietor of the place.

Mc'Kelvey's staff of inspectors has been going over theaters in St. Louis determining their exact conditions, from a safety viewpoint, since the theater disaster in Washington, D.C., in which many lives were lost. The Grand Opera House was closed several weeks ago, so repairs to the roof of that place could be made.

Mc'Kelvey said his deputies have gone all over all of the larger theaters and they have been found to be in good shape, generally. Several minor changes were suggested by his office to some of the theaters which have been called out, he said. The deputy inspectors are going over the smaller neighborhood theaters.

'KIDNAPED FORMER WIFE ESCAPES AFTER 11 DAYS

Mulberry (Kan.) Woman Says She Abandoned Self to Death on Trip With Ex-Husband.

By the Associated Press
PITTSBURG, Kan., March 24.—Haggard and worn from 11 days of almost continuous travel, Mrs. Besse Hasson, who says she was kidnaped Sunday night, March 12, by her divorced husband, and beaten before he disappeared with her in a motor car, returned today to the home of her parents at Mulberry, after having escaped at Liberal, Mo., after having escaped at Liberal, Mo.

Indignation of the Crawford County public was aroused considerably when it was reported William Hasson had kidnaped Mrs. Hasson from a boarding house where she was staying at Crownpoint, a few miles north of Pittsburg. Witnesses described their son beaten by Hasson, heard a shot fired and saw the woman fall, to be picked up by Hasson and carried to a motor car. He drove off, it is said, and until today an incessant search had failed to reveal the whereabouts of the two.

Members of Mrs. Hasson's family feared for her life. A reward was offered and photographs and descriptions were sent out.

Mrs. Hasson Tells Story.

Mrs. Hasson had sufficiently recovered to tell of her experience. "I fired the shot that night," she said, "but I didn't hit him."

Mrs. Hasson said she became unconscious as a result of the beating she said Hasson administered and by the excitement and that when she recovered consciousness Hasson had her in the vicinity of a "dinky" mine near Liberal, Mo. She declared he threatened to throw her into its depths, but changed his mind and took her to a house in the home of his mother, south of Pittsburg, where he picked up their son, Buddy, 7 years old, and in the early hours of the night, after the kidnaping, headed toward Oklahoma.

Mrs. Hasson declared that during the days of travel in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas she had abandoned herself to death, but that she regained hope when he turned back. They arrived at Liberal Wednesday night, she said, and early yesterday morning he left her and the boy alone for the first time since the kidnaping, saying he would return in two or three hours.

Opportunity for Escape.

Until yesterday afternoon she waited for him, afraid to take advantage of the opportunity to escape. Finally she called a taxicab and drove to her home at Mulberry accompanied by their son. Mrs. Hasson's parents had not known of the son's whereabouts since last October. Hasson is said to have kidnaped him following an order of the court that the boy be returned to his mother.

Hasson is wanted on four warrants, two charging assault and battery as the outgrowth of a beating he is alleged to have administered his wife, the third charging the kidnaping of his son, and the fourth charging contempt of court. No complaint has been filed against him as the result of the alleged kidnaping of his former wife and transporting her out of the State.

The Sheriff's force is conducting a search for Hasson, who is believed to be in the vicinity of Liberal.

HUNGARY'S THANKS FOR RELIEF

Local Committee Head Sends Cable to Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 24.—Owing to the steadily improving food conditions in Hungary, the American Relief Administration has closed its office there.

Stocks sufficient to carry the relief work on to next June have been left for distribution by the local committee, whose president, Dr. James Lukay, has sent the following cable to Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Administration: "Permit me to convey on behalf of this suffering nation its undying gratitude for the noble humanitarian work which America under your esteemed leadership has extended to us in our hour of need. May you be given strength for continuing your great world leadership." Since August, 1921, when the American Relief Administration started operations in Hungary, 42,000,000 men have been served and the total value of food and clothing distributed amounts to $1,200,000.

FLOWER SHOW OPENS MARCH 25

Buds to Be Favored at National Exhibition in Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 22.—Thousands of roses, carnations, tulips, lilies, daffodils, tulips, and other flowers will be given away at the national flower show to be held in Indianapolis March 25 to April 1. It has been announced. Plans for the event are well under way and it is hoped to make it the greatest flower show ever held in the United States.

An unusual feature of the show will be the display of some of the most unique and beautiful forms of rare life known to be contributed by the Glass Park Fishery near Martinsville, Ind., which are said to be the largest fish hatcheries in the world.

CAUGHT IN CHASE AFTER AUTO INJURES MAN

Two Men Arrested When Freight Cars Stop Their Flight; Two Others Escape.

Their automobile blocked by a string of freight cars, two of four men in a machine being chased by Probationary Patrolman Lueckerath, after their car had seriously injured John Trost, 46 years old, at Broadway and Taylor avenue, were arrested at the end of a five blocks' pursuit, last night. The car, driven by the man who had hit Trost, had been in the car jumped out and escaped. Archie Kessler, 24, of 4003 North Twenty-third street, was arrested after his arrest that he was in charge of the automobile, but denied driving it. The other man, William Dunham, 52, of 5245 Maffitt avenue, an accountant, said he had hired Kessler to drive him around throughout the day and knew nothing of an accident having occurred.

A warrant charging Kessler with felonious wounding and with leaving the scene of an injury was issued today by Assistant Circuit Attorney Ossing.

Patrolman Gives Chase. Trost, a salesman of 4450 Clarence avenue, was knocked down when he walked far behind a northbound Broadway car from which he had just alighted, to get on a Taylor car. When the automobile, going south, sped on, Patrolman Lueckerath, standing nearby, commanded a passing machine and gave chase. The car with the four men ran south to Carrie avenue and then east down Bulwer avenue to the railroad tracks, where the freight cars compelled a halt, and the arrests were made.

Trost, who was taken to the city hospital, suffered a broken left limb, bone lacerations of the scalp and abrasions of the head and face. His right ear was torn off.

The automobile is owned by John Cummings of 4102 North Twentieth street, who told police he gave Kessler permission to use the car early yesterday, but did not know he had been taking passengers for hire. Woman's Skull Is Fractured. When She Is Knocked Down by Auto.

Mrs. Melissa Hyatt, 64, a widow, of 2703 Finney avenue, is at the city hospital with a fractured skull as the result of being knocked down by an automobile driven by Joseph Kronzberg, 19, of 4145 Lindell boulevard, in front of 2756 Lafayette avenue, at 9 p.m. Her condition is serious. Kronzberg told policemen that Mrs. Hyatt attempted to cross the south side of Lafayette avenue as he was driving east. He swerved his machine sharply to the right to avoid striking her, but says the rear of the car hit her and knocked her down. Kronzberg's automobile collided with a car parked at the curb, following the swerve.

Mary Iovaldi, 16, of 5317 Wilson avenue was struck by an automobile driven by William Carroll of 1623A Wash street, last night, as she was crossing Shaw avenue at Vandeventer avenue. She was taken to the city hospital, suffering with concussion of the brain and scalp wounds. Her condition is serious.

CHARLES VAN STUDDIFORD IS SUED BY JOHN G. WILLIAMS

Case Involving $1025 in Circuit Court Said to Have Developed Over Deal for Horse.

A suit for $1025, filed in Circuit Court by John Gates Williams, 9 Washington terrace, against Charles Van Studdiford, residing at the Washington Hotel, grew out of an agreement made in June, 1920, whereby Van Studdiford was to buy a saddle horse for Williams, an attorney in the case said yesterday. No mention is made in the petition of what the money was paid for, it being merely stated the sum was advanced to Van Studdiford June 26, 1920, and that $306 was loaned to Van Studdiford, Feb. 17, 1921.

Neither Williams nor Van Studdiford would discuss the suit. The attorney for the horse, when the alleged agreement was made by Williams with Van Studdiford concerning the purchase of the horse, it was specified the animal must come up to Williams' expectations. This proviso made of the deal a sort of horse of another color, and when Van Studdiford sent an animal to Williams, it was rejected—making of the deal for the nonce a "horse" on Van Studdiford.

CONGRESSMAN NAMES NEGRO FOR ADMISSION TO NAVAL ACADEMY

If Successful, Boy Will Be First of Race to Enter Annapolis Since Reconstruction Period.

Special to the Post.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Emile Treville Holley, 17 years old, a negro boy, has been nominated by Representative Martin C. Ansorge, Republican, of the Twenty-first Congressional District of New York, New York City, for admission to Annapolis. If he should pass the examination at the Naval Academy April 19, and receive the appointment, he will be the first of his race to do so since the reconstruction period after the Civil War.

Holley is a freshman at the College of the City of New York. While a student at the Townsend Harris High School, Ansorge said yesterday, he was on the varsity track and baseball squads and an officer of his class. He is also superintendent of the St. James Presbyterian Sunday School and a member of the Boys' Executive Council of the Y. M. C. A. Ansorge represents a negro district.

"I have distributed my appointments throughout the district," he declared. "There are four principals and 12 alternates to be named. I am happy to say that every boy in my district who applied received an appointment."

SIX BIG REASONS WHY WE SAVE YOU FULLY ONE-THIRD ON YOUR CLOTHING

REASON 1:
We occupy over 40,000 square feet in this building (Wool Building). Our business is devoted exclusively to the sale of Men's, Young Men's, Youth's and Boys' Clothing. Specialization and concentration mean a saving to you.

REASON 2:
Our stocks surpass those of any other single local clothier, both in variety and quantity. Our "turnover" is greater by far. This means a wide choice of sizes, styles and fabrics, and assures new merchandise at all times. Large-scale merchandising means a saving to you.

REASON 3:
By buying and selling for cash only we save the cost of expensive bookkeeping systems, bad accounts and collectors. Our spot-cash purchases, too, result in huge buying advantages. We share these savings with you. Cash buying and selling mean a saving to you.

REASON 4:

Our dominant policy of quick sales at small profits results in our being able to bring out a rapid turnover for a minimum margin of profit—a slow business with big profits is entirely out of our line. Quick "turnover" means a saving to you.

REASON 5:
All expenses that add to the cost, but not to the quality, have been eliminated. No fancy fixtures, no elaborate display furniture. All operating expenses have been reduced to a common-sense minimum.

REASON 6:
We give no special discounts to any person or group of persons—no trading stamps—no free services—but adhere strictly to our policy of one price and a square deal to all.

This means a saving to you.

Open Forum Is Closing Its Experimental Weekly Revel in Free Speech

As Season Progressed "Intelligentia" Were En-gulfed by the "Dementzia," Thus Attracting Those Relishing Vaudeville.

The Open Forum, a weekly revel in free speech in Sheldon Memorial, will close its experimental season Sunday night.

The Forum was copied from institutions of identical name in England, sober, reasoning, if radical progress in solid thinking.

The sponsors of the Forum here simply had in mind the encouragement of individual thinking to counteract; as they hold, the slothful delusion of that function by the people who want undisturbed pursuit of pleasure or unchecked passage down the primrose paths to submerged in pools of pleasure.

The Forum was to fuse theories that must actually be eradicated. The minute you will realize just his store can really hand tailored finished and unfi-d-color serges, fine and Scotches. New-most up-to-date entity of the popular

gatherings that's what makes free speech an entire city cooped up in a single room and then freed it terrible.

MacMahon and three of his sons were killed outright, another son died of his wounds, and two others are near death. The crime is thought to be the result of the shooting of a number of special constables in May street Tuesday.

Murphy has his speech timed to a hair. One of the rules is that speeches must be no longer than three minutes. The majority is ready to enforce this rule, for the majority is fidgeting itself warm, awaiting turn to set the world right as only they can do it.

Murphy has never been known to mislead, "reaching 'international government' at the instant the gavel falls. Murphy's crescendo is perfect. His final note is struck at a pitch no other yet has reached. Murphy has shattered enough plaster to keep plasterer's wages up for another year.

Under the Wire in 3 Minutes. Others who went into training after Murphy have some difficulty. One man ate up his entire three minutes in trying to co-ordinate what he really had to say with the subject. The gavel fell before he reached his hobby. He stared blankly for a second and then got in under the wire. "Any way, I am a free-trade Democrat," he shouted.

The shooting were heard by occupants of a nearby house, who noted the Glenview street barracks.

A 6-year-old son who had been taken into a room which he had at the same time as the other members of the family crawled under a lounge and escaped, although several shots were fired at him.

Mrs. MacMahon pleaded tearfully, but in vain, with the assassins to spare the family. Then she screamed to the window to a nursing home adjoining to summon help. The MacMahons are Catholic family.

Mrs. MacMahon and her daughter rushed down to the living room, when the attackers departed, and found the seven lying on the floor in pools of blood, three of the bodies in a heap.

When the police arrived they found the women in a state of collapse. Ambulances took the victims to the hospital, where it was found that four already were dead. The matron of the hospital reports that the two wounded sons are very weak.

An ambulance attendant collapsed after holding carry the bodies into the hospital.

Fight in Tyrone. A six-hour running fight occurred between Ulster special constables and Sinn Feiners in the vicinity of Garrickmore, County Tyrone, yesterday. The fighting started when 50 of the British regulars were ambushed outside the town.

Charles Nagel was a recent speaker in the Forum. It has never been said that the Cabinet of which he was a member was about to destroy free institutions with radicalism, but Nagel, possibly with a sense of self-preservation, let fall one or two soothing suggestions, such as "fair and square," and "man's natural birthright."

A youth, youthful hardly let the former Secretary of Commerce and Labor reach his chair.

"How are we going to get this fair chance?" he demanded.

Nagel had no such comprehensive plan as Murphy to fall back upon, and was silent.

Wheneupon the profit to be gained in the Forum was driven home to him. "I'll tell you," said the youth. "The workers must be given control." So Nagel will never again be called to answer, if he ever should find occasion to exalt the fair deal again.

Smashing It to Smithereens.

On another occasion Jeannette Rankin, former Congresswoman, was racing guaranteed by law of adequate wages for working girls. This riled the labor leaders. The unions are perfectly able to protect the working girl. Only they don't, reminded Miss Rankin with a vehemence that she herself could not understand about dangerous work.

Only they do, said the laborers. It is definitely, and there followed one of the customary upheavals that so delight the fourth part of the audience, the lookouts.

The battle was terminated by a cry of "fubar."

The labor champions complained that while they were being limited to three minutes Miss Rankin was answering without time limit and was shutting them out by sheer voluntariness. "If I could get as much time as she," her first challenger shouted, "I could smash everything she says to us."

The Forum will adjourn Sunday night, but will be resumed in the autumn. Those who organized it recognize that it has not developed strictly along the lines desired. But a vacation will bring it back into its course, they feel. At least, the speeches will be refreshed somewhat.

BELFAST, March 24.—A band of men forced their way into the home of Owen MacMahon, a saloon keeper, early this morning, and shot seven members of the family. News of the raid has stirred the city.

REED VENTS SARCASM ON REPUBLICAN IRRECONCILABLES SUPPORTING PACIFIC TREATY

Calls Them "Turncoats Who Quit Flag of Country for the Flag of Their Party"—Lashes Spencer.

By CHARLES G. ROSS.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The oratory of Reed of Missouri, given full play in an eleventh hour onslaught against the four-Power treaty, last night for an hour and a half, may succeed for an hour; misrepresentation may have its day of success, but in the end the American people will find out the truth regarding every proposition.

I hesitate not to say, though I claim not the gift of prophecy, that there will not a Democratic convention meet in the United States the next 12 months, or the next two years that will not condemn the four-Power pact, and I do not hesitate to predict that great multitudes of American citizens who, regardless of party, voted against what they believed to be an entangling alliance, will stand more true to their principles than the irreconcilables who quit the flag of their country when the flag of their party was held above them.

All Absent Tonight.

"How brave were these irreconcilables, how valiantly they stood and declared that, not because of difference in party but because of love of their country, they would support the treaty." Reed's bludgeoning of his opponents was never more merciless, his impassioned passages never more dramatic, than in this endeavor to stem the tide of defeat running against the opponents of the treaty, and to put the issue before the country in a way calculated to do the greatest damage to the administration.

In striking contrast with the four-Power pact, and others who have lined up for it, Reed's supporters were the rows of empty seats on the floor. Only about 15 Senators heard the speech. Reed commented on the scant attendance of his colleagues, and particularly on the absence of those members of the old "battalion of death" Brandegee and McCormick and others, who have lined up for it.

Spencer Blundered, He Says.

Among the Senators who did not attend the meeting of the Senate to consider the ratification of the four-Power pact, and those who have lined up for it, Reed's supporters were the rows of empty seats on the floor. Only about 15 Senators heard the speech. Reed commented on the scant attendance of his colleagues, and particularly on the absence of those members of the old "battalion of death" Brandegee and McCormick and others, who have lined up for it.

Naval Limitation Treaty.

Reed had previously denounced both the four-Power and the naval limitation treaty. In this speech he linked these with the Chinese right, which denied to China the right to its own revenues or to exercise the sovereign powers of an independent nation." He did not distinguish in his remarks between the two Chinese treaties, one a general treaty to govern the conduct of nations toward China and the other dealing specifically with the Chinese customs tariff.

Reed's fiery eloquence in concluding his remarks caused the galleries to violate the Senate rule against applauding. He said:

"Who shall say that within 18 months' time—say, within eight months' time—the armies of Russia may not be pressing the Japanese back? Who shall say that Japan will not be broken? Who shall say that the island of Sakhalin shall not be invaded for the purpose of driving the Japanese from that place and for the purpose of destroying the Japanese forces? When that time comes, and when the conference is called, who will dare say that we stand acquit to do nothing, that we stand acquit to wait through a day off each week. We shall say that we are working 13 and 14 hours a day, and that although the 9-hour working law does not apply to them, they should be at least as good as we are."

Mr. Henry Butler of the Wednesday Club said there should be at least 12 smoke inspectors, whereas there are only two now.

"Mary Rose" and Pessimism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

YOUR very able and appreciated critic of the drama, Mr. Richard Stokes, in his reviews is usually so accurate in judgment that quite rightly, one may hesitate to differ with him in opinion. Yet Homer himself was said to nod occasionally.

Perhaps it may be viewed as presumptuous to venture an expression of opinion quite similar to that of Mr. Stokes in his analysis of the grandeur of the new "Barrie" play, now at the American Theater.

Mr. Stokes believes the play "enforces piercing pessimism." Mr. Stokes speaks of "the evanescence of the fondess' vows of lovers or of the emotions of a mother's passion." He writes that "those once dearer to us than all the world perish forever from our thoughts."

If Sir James M. Barrie, the distinguished Scotch playwright, intended that the play should have a serious meaning, purpose or import, it would be painful if his fine, haunting, fascinating play should teach so lamentable a lesson as that love and human feeling are as fleeting as the summer wind and leave no trace behind."

The play is open to a number of symbolic surmises, by its injection of the supernatural.

Some might regard it as a plea for spiritualistic faith. Others might think it shows the call of the ideal, or the weakness of caprice, that tears us from immediate duties to the distant phantoms of imagined dear desires.

"Mary Rose" implied, to my thought, the enduring, deathless fixity of love, in spite of dissolution or distraction. The play seemed to me to testify that true love is not fleeting and ephemeral, but indestructible, and deathless.

In the central figure, Mary Rose, forgotten? No. She lives on in her husband's mind for Simon Blame never remarried. Harry, her son, who can away at 12 years, well remembers her. He comes after long years, from far Australia in hope to see her. Even her "ghost" is dear to him. Her father's pretense of forgetfulness is belied by the immediate agony he shows on her return. The mother ever thinks of her. (As though a parent could forget a darling child that had been loved and lost.)

Nor does Mary forget. After her supernatural sleep her first goal is her home. Her first dash in the house is for the cradle of her babe. Death is the toll she pays for anguish of remembered love!

Every character in the play is proof of love's vitality, of the persistence and eternity of human feeling and devotion.

So is affection, also, I believe, in actual life. Of course, much so-called love is only passing passion, superficial sentiment, a momentary interest or mad infatuation.

True love is never transient or fleeting. It is the blood and breath of life. It goes beyond life—in no supernatural sense, but in showing itself in those who become martyrs, heroes and all precious souls are remembered and revered. So are Jesus, Moses, Washington and Lincoln living.

Hamlet, seeing his father's ghost, and hastening to it appeal for vengeance, says: "Remember thee! Yea, from the table of my memory I'll wipe away all trivial fond records."

So do we, who continue to believe in the tenacity and immortality of love in human memory, exclaim: "Remember those we love! Ay, from the table of our memories, they never shall depart!"

I know the play of "Mary Rose" left this exciting thought in me, but at least one auditor, and I would hope that a like idea and a similar impression would stay with all the multitudes who see the play—in preference to the sad, despairing, pessimistic sentiment that Mr. Stokes enunciates.

That Ice Ordinance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
It seems as though Alderman Birth had not considered the full meaning of the bill he introduced. Being an ice dealer I find that the bill only reaches the poor class of people. In many instances I have been where the iceboxes will only hold a 5 or 10 cent piece and people who market on Saturday night could not keep their foodstuffs if prevented from buying ice on Saturday night until Monday morning.

JOHN H. HOWARD JR.

$5000 a Year in the Mines.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
A CERTAIN gentleman in Tuesday's issue claims a practical coal miner can earn $5000 a year. I would like to know what kind of an animal he is, because there is no human being can earn that money in the coal mines, even if he had the best right place in the country. I have worked in the mines for 20 years. But I have never seen a man who is able enough to shovel that amount of coal at the present wage. Thank God, I have finished with the mines, but give the miners what is coming to them. He earns every penny in his underground hole.

EX-MINER.

AN IMPOSSIBLE POLICY.

The United States joined with the other Powers in the occupation of the Rhine territory on terms of equality as regards reimbursement by Germany for costs incurred. No nation was to be a preferred creditor. The citation of the armistice agreement and the subsequent provision of the Versailles treaty briefs any competent dissent from that point out of court.

All this is set forth in Mr. Hughes' incisive note to the other occupying Powers in presenting the claim of the United States for $241,000,000 in this account as due and payable. A possible demurser because the United States has not ratified the Versailles treaty is anticipated and offset by the fact that, in the separate treaty of peace between Germany and the United States, Germany consented to priority of payment to the United States.

The Hughes note also recites the fact that substantial payments have been made to Belgium, France and Italy, that Great Britain has received an installment and that the United States alone has not been paid anything. Those payments, it is shown, have been approved by authoritative bodies. Moreover, the latest official action in this connection continues the process of leaving the United States alone of the creditors to have no share in the payments.

The United States objects, forcefully and properly. But no sensible person will say we are not ourselves pretty largely to blame for the discrimination against us. We have deliberately chosen to take no responsible part in European affairs notwithstanding our immense interests there. The sum of $241,000,000 in this particular bill, big as it is, is negligible compared with America's stake in Europe—a stake of $11,000,000,000 indebtedness and a trade without which we cannot have peak prosperity.

Mr. Harding, elected on a platform—shall we say—to keep us out of Europe, realizes he cannot keep us out of Europe. He has learned in a year of the presidency that, economically, we are up to our ears in Europe. He realizes now that the bombast of our business is sounding brass. He is aware that grave business difficulties cannot be settled by a separate treaty of peace. He has learned that America will not get very far by merely having observers present at Europe's conferences.

President Harding now acknowledges that the United States must take its place at the table of the Reparations Commission, not as a guest, but as a member. The critical situation of the American dye industry is only one of innumerable conditions driving us into the swirl of Europe's activities and agenda, as a matter of necessity. If a business man were to trust the management of a large, indispensable part of his affairs to former partners who had become competitors, he would be guilty of the folly which the United States is committing in declining to join in the work of Europe's reconstruction.

The Hughes note may seem cold and stern to impoverished, hard-pressed peoples but lately our comrades in arms. The real lash of it, though, should not forget, moreover, the tremendous force of public opinion that, as a result of public loss, will be likely to range itself against whichever side appears to be unreasonable.

The union carpenters have stood out immovable against any attempt to effect a reduction of wages from the post-war peak of $2.25 an hour, though their hourly rate up to March 1, 1919, was only 70 cents. In the knowledge that a $20,000,000 building program was hanging on the issue they rejected in a referendum some weeks ago a voluntary reduction to $1 an hour. Now the master builders, having abandoned hope of an agreed reduction, have announced that they will pay not more than 95 cents an hour. Though this is a reduction from their recent offer, they claim that in 50 other large cities of the country the average wage for carpenters is 80 cents.

If the carpenters object to the newly proclaimed scale it remains for them to make a counter offer. The old wage, as against public judgment, as against standards of other cities and as against the opinion of St. Louis cannot stand. If a general reduction is made it should be made in conformity with reason and justice. Public patience cannot be expected to last indefinitely in the face of an unjustified attitude which is a damage to the community.

There could have been nothing average in the brow of the jury spokesman who had never heard of Tex Rickard. It must have been either very high or very low.

With the mark down to three for a cent, counterfeit money is no longer among the things that worry Germany.

THE END OF THE ADVENTURE.
(From the New York World.)

by the substance of Mrs. Asquith's conclusion, which is that prohibition has made lawlessness fashionable in the United States.

IN THE SEATS OF GIANTS.

The debate on the four-Power treaty in the Senate was disheartening to the American people. It exhibited a combination of ignorance, thoughtlessness and reckless misstatement on the part of Senators which suggests profound degeneration in the character and capacity of the body that should represent the highest legislative standard.

Senator Spencer's statement in a carefully prepared speech that the treaty would benefit Korea by enabling the four Powers to deal with the Korean question was an amazing blend of ignorance and lack of thought. The treaty does not affect Korea in the slightest degree, as Senator Lodge was compelled to point out. Senator Spencer is a supporter of the treaty, but his stupid misconstruction of it offered a peg for the scorn and laughter of his opponents and for serious argument as to its meaning.

Senator Borah quoted Paul D. Cravath, the New York lawyer, as saying that a secret agreement for the future co-operation of Great Britain and the United States had been reached at the arms conference. Mr. Cravath promptly denied that he had said anything of the kind. The Senator's statement was foolish as well as false.

Recently Senator Reed misrepresented the treaty by saying that it did not abrogate the Anglo-Japanese treaty and had to stand corrected by the plain wording of the document thus giving Missouri "the bad eminence" of having two Senators who did not know what they were talking about.

Akin to these blunderbus outbreaks was Breckinridge Long's recent misrepresentation of the treaty in comparing it with the Anglo-Japanese treaty by quoting two similar clauses, but ignoring the one vital differing clause. He is only a candidate for the Senate.

The debate was a revelation of the Senate's mind and character. It exhibited recklessness, misstatements, crass ignorance, emptyheadedness, demagogic, false and misleading assertions—a mass of piffle and flap-doodle.

Shades of Webster and Benton! What chattering pygmies sit in the seats of the giants!

The House celebrated the announcement of a $200,000,000 stamp in income tax receipts by passing the budget.

THE NEW WAGE OFFER.

The building public, the renting public, the working or unemployed public and the City of St. Louis would be the innocent sufferers of any prolonged deadlock between the master builders and the carpenters on the issue of wages. The parties to the controversy would not suffer less. They should not forget, moreover, the tremendous force of public opinion that, as a result of public loss, will be likely to range itself against whichever side appears to be unreasonable.

The union carpenters have stood out immovable against any attempt to effect a reduction of wages from the post-war peak of $2.25 an hour, though their hourly rate up to March 1, 1919, was only 70 cents. In the knowledge that a $20,000,000 building program was hanging on the issue they rejected in a referendum some weeks ago a voluntary reduction to $1 an hour. Now the master builders, having abandoned hope of an agreed reduction, have announced that they will pay not more than 95 cents an hour. Though this is a reduction from their recent offer, they claim that in 50 other large cities of the country the average wage for carpenters is 80 cents.

If the carpenters object to the newly proclaimed scale it remains for them to make a counter offer. The old wage, as against public judgment, as against standards of other cities and as against the opinion of St. Louis cannot stand. If a general reduction is made it should be made in conformity with reason and justice. Public patience cannot be expected to last indefinitely in the face of an unjustified attitude which is a damage to the community.

There could have been nothing average in the brow of the jury spokesman who had never heard of Tex Rickard. It must have been either very high or very low.

With the mark down to three for a cent, counterfeit money is no longer among the things that worry Germany.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
By Clark McAdams

EDGAR LEE MASTERS is being sued for divorce. The poet's wife charges him with having abandoned her in the course of wandering about the country in search of material for his poetry, and what she wants is to be quit of him on the usual cash payment plan.

This is terrible, but who will say that it is too much to pay for such a career as Edgar Lee Masters is making for himself? He has been one of the outstanding pioneers in American poetry. No one who has seen him turned his back upon imitation of the French masters more completely than he. We must remember that the pioneers have never made very good husbands. Even the immortal Ulysses was sedom home. There is no intimation anywhere that Christopher Columbus took his wife with him.

We are not without the fullest sympathy for the poet's home folk. It is unfortunate for them that the lawyer became with too much reluctance a poet, but what a gain is ours!

Echoing Senator Lodge, in the latter's appeal for the treaties now before that body, Senator Borah of Wisconsin said:

"Mr. President, if these treaties are defeated, not only will we never enter into the League of Nations, but we will not during the lives of any one of us enter into any international conference for peace. Who would care to confer with us after the experience of the past three years, and what President of any party would venture to call another conference or participate in one?" If this treaty is rejected, the isolationists will have won their victory, but many of them will live to realize that their hour of victory was the nation's hour of peril.

This created a fine opportunity for someone to remind the Senate of what happened two years ago, and Senator Walsh of Montana improved it with this:

"I recognize the peril! I appreciate the delicacy of the situation, but I remind Senators that here was the moving actors in the famous round-robin protest against the League of Nations must bear a large share of the responsibility for that unfortunate state of affairs which prevails among the nations abroad with respect to the efforts to engage with the United States in treaties general in their character. The admonition, Mr. President, might come better from someone other than the gentlemen who are so largely responsible for the sentiments they deploy."

If you know of anyone who is having a better time than the Wilson Democrats in the Senate are having right now, send in your name and we will let you tell the world on our radio broadcast.

The bitter-enders are at the bitter end.

Dear Sir: Your quip in today's edition, pertaining to going to England to express one's viewpoint concerning prohibition, is the most prodigious piece of wit I have enjoyed for some time.

You have spoken the sentiments of many subjects when you say you had decided not to say any more about prohibition for fear of being put in the class with drunkards. It is the irony of fate, or fanaticism (I do not know which), that the people who are temperance and have no fear of the temptations of liquor and therefore do not have to drive it from the face of the earth to escape it have to leave the land of free speech to speak their convictions with the greatest difficulty.

When in fact, many of the less virile nature of this earth have forsaken the role of drunkards—joined the prohibition crusaders—and set up upon their virtuous thrones to snort the temperance man and deny him of his right to participate in moderation of the good things of the earth, because of their own weakness.

A BELIEVER IN TEMPERANCE.
Honolulu, Mo., March 22.

THE IMPORTANT POSE.

Doc Lipsius, who resides in a little, up-country village, is an inveterate fisherman—and unlucky. He generally has, however, a very good excuse for each of his failures to capture the elusive bass and crappie.

He came trudging in at dusk one day during the present spring with an empty bait can and the growing conviction that he was running short of good explanations for his often repeated water-hauls.

Near the outskirts of the village he met a friend of his who is also a fisherman, but whose efforts in that line are attended with some success.

This friend asked Doc what luck had been his during the day.

"No luck a-tail," answered Doc. " Didn't get a single durn fish. Good day for fishin' too."

"What seemed to be the greatest drayback?"

"Fish off on a picnic?" asked the friend, politely.

"None, plenty of fish there. Guess I didn't hold my mouth right to suit 'em," said Doc. And he passed on his way, muttering to himself over the day's misfortunes.

That night the friend called Doc on the telephone, thinking to poke a bit of fun at him over his lack of success.

"Hey! Doc!" he yelled, after the connection had been made. "Are you there?" This is Joe Scroggins. Say, Doc 'Mc' Men Bill Jones are goin' down to the creek tomorrow to fish for bullheads. And I'd like to ask to you which is the best way for a feller to hold his mouth when he's fishin' for them kind of fish?"

Doc was heard to chuckle.

"Try holdin' it shut!" he said.

JEFF ROTORBAR.

Farmers are figuring closely these days. They have to turn into cash whatever is convertible. Therefore, it must not surprise us to learn that a Missouri editor has a brand-new plan for paying the bonus. According to the Sikeston Standard, "he gets his idea from the action of the Senate in voting Henry Ford's seat to Newberry. He says it should be easy; if a seat in the Senate is worth $200,000, why not sell them all to the highest bidders and use the money to pay the soldiers?" And then there is the Supreme Court—the big proprietary interest should be willing to pay a million dollars apiece for five or six of the seats and a few millions for the Presidency—last time in the House the Republican party almost nine millions to pick that plum. And then there is the control of the House—the tariff beneficiaries and the fellows who have to pay the big surtaxes might use a lot of them at the jobs at $100,000 each. Even Herbert Hoover might get a bid."

Nicholas Vachel Lindsay says we will pronounce calliope to rhyme with hope for another hundred years, as strong upon us is the influence of P. T. Barnum, who captured our fancy at a time when we were first forming our impressions.

SYMPHONY TO PLAY SIX TIMES IN KANSAS CITY

Announcement of Plan for Next Year Brings Applause at Last Concert.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 23.—The announcement from the stage of Convention Hall last night that the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Eugene Isayé, conductor, would open the next symphony season in Kansas City with concert Oct. 26 and 27 and that the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra would return for six concerts will be heartily applauded. Mrs. C. Jones, vice-president of the Kansas City Symphony Orchestra Association, told the tentative program of other visiting orchestras, presumably those of Chicago and Minneapolis.

The audience received the announcement with apparent delight. It had just heard Conductor Ganz marshal the changing scenes of the Tchaikovsky concerto in a manner to revive memories of his brilliant career as a pianist. The conductor-pianist's tense mood, combined with the flaming torch of Tchaikovsky's musical passion, made the big work worthy of rapture to the symphony season, a high point of achievement in a season that has many outstanding memories.

St. Louis Orchestra Resourceful.

The resourcefulness of the St. Louis Orchestra is one of its best assets. It has provided at least three soloists this season from its membership and in Frederick Fischell has an assistant conductor who has steadily grown in popularity with Kansas City audiences. Last night he conducted the "Eugene" overture with fine understanding of sequence of scenes and an easy grace over the difficult parts. He followed this with a most satisfying support for Ganz in the concerto.

In last night's program Rimsky-Korsakoff's symphonic suite, "Sheherazade," gave Conductor Ganz a fine opportunity to make musical magic. His painted picture after picture, told tale after tale with a clearness and color that kept the plot intact. It is part of the power of the St. Louis conductor that he lures his audiences away from all things mundane, ordinary, work-a-day, and takes them into imaginary by-paths. His ability to do this has counted strongly in the children's concert, and surely the thousands of them will read with interest this morning that he is to conduct at least three of their concerts next year.

No Increase in Attendance.

The concert closed with the "1812" Overture, in which the orchestra had been visiting her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Wendorff of 1202 Shawmut place for a few days, will return tonight to her home in Chicago.

The audience showed no increase over the concert. The matinee audiences have steadily increased but the night concerts, after climbing fast up to the third concert, dropped back a little in attendance, which may be due to the absence from the city of many ticket holders.

FUNERAL OF JOHN B. GANDOLFO WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Founder of First Self-Rising Flour Mill West of Mississippi Dies of Pneumonia.

The funeral of John R. Gandolfo, founder of the first mill west of the Mississippi River to make self-rising flour and a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Union army during the Civil War, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow from the undertaking parlor at 2018 Meramec Street. Burial will be in the National Cemetery, at Jefferson Barracks.

Regardless of the charges during his life, he is to be buried in the cemetery to represent an important post as a Governor of Porto Rico. His highest character. MRS. WILLIAM R. COMPTON.

evening. A large reception will follow the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. J. T. Meyer. The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Emma Obernier, as maid of honor, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Edgar Obernier, as matron of honor, and Miss Thyra Chambliss, the bride's sister, as bridesmaid.

The maid of honor and bridesmaid will be gowned alike in frocks of pink and gold changeable taffeta, made with a basque and full skirt and short puffed sleeves.

Each dress will have a girdle of taffeta rose and a huge bow of gold maline in the back, the ends of which will fall below the hem. The matron of honor will wear pink taffeta with a gold cast. The skirt has side draperies, and the gown is trimmed with gold lace. A crushed girdle of gold cloth encircles the waist line. The flowers of the attendants will be arm bouquets of orange roses.

The bride's gown is of white bridal satin. The bodice is of white bridal satin, with a wide belt and the side panels of the skirt are embroidered with pearls and crystals, and there will be cap sleeves outlined in pearls. The girdle is of satin roses. A satin court train will be suspended from the shoulders. It is embroidered in the same design of crystals and pearls which adorns the skirt, and lined with pink Georgette. Her tulip veil will be arranged under a coronet of lace and orange blossoms, and she will carry a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Charles will be best man, and the groomsmen will be Raymond Pendleton, Robert Garfield, and Clifton Sudler. Robert Garfield, Garneau Weld, Winston Johns and Asa Wallace.

Miss Janet Gregg of Brentmoor gave a luncheon today in honor of Miss Elizabeth Boeckeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boeckeler. Mrs. Boeckeler will be hostess at a theater party this evening in honor of Miss Irene Goddard. The additional guests will be Misses Elsie O'Farrell, Elizabeth Terry, Mary Etta Randolph, Carolyn Miller, Janet Gregg, Messe Louise Paulin, Marion and Clifton Sudler, Robert Garfield, Garneau Weld, Winston Johns and Asa Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Barwick of 4923 McPherson Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marson of 4929 McPherson Avenue, will depart June 1 to tour the Pacific Coast. They will visit Yellowstone and Glacier National parks en route, and will tour the coast from Washington to California, returning in the fall.

Mr. William R. Compton of 18 Kingsbury Place is chairman of the Special Gifts Committee of the Y. W. C. A. campaign. She and Mr. Compton departed yesterday for the East and will spend the Easter holidays with their daughter, Miss Frances Compton, who is a student at Vassar College.

COPENHAGEN, March 24.—The engagement of Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark, 22, to Princess Olga, 18, eldest daughter of Prince George of Greece, announced March 3, came as a surprise even to King Christian and Queen Alexandra.

How much so can be judged from the fact that a supposed picture of the prospective bride printed in the Danish newspapers and authorized by the Court Chamberlain turned out to be not that of Princess Olga, but of another Greek Princess.

Gandolfo came to the United States from Italy when he was 6 years old. He joined Hawkins' Zouaves at the outbreak of the Civil War, and participated in the Civil War and participated in the Sherman's march through Georgia. He came to St. Louis in 1870 and was sent by the Board of Trade to Washington, where he was instrumental in having the Barracks established as an army post.

Gandolfo was a member of the Board of Trade for many years and served several terms as president of the Provident Association. His wife, Mrs. Rosalie Gandolfo, whom he married in 1867, died six years ago.

MRS. TINGLEY CAUSES FUREUR IN SWEDEN

American Theosophist Attacked by Press and Ministers Because of Activities.

By the Associated Press STOCKHOLM, March 24.—No person in private or public life who has visited Sweden of late years has aroused such a journalistic furor as Mrs. Katherine Tingley, head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society of Point Loma, Calif., who has now been here for several weeks. She has been the target of attack in the Stockholm press and Swedish ministers have joined in protesting against her influence in Sweden.

Thus far the storm of criticism has had apparently no effect on the American woman unless it has induced her to prolong her visit. A few days ago she left the Grand Hotel, Stockholm's principal hotel, and moved into an apartment in the fashionable Strandvagen, an avenue where many socially prominent residents of the capital have their homes.

View of Her Visit.

The Swedish newspapers say Mrs. Tingley came to Sweden because of her Swedish sect, but both fail to give any reason. The newspaper editors add that two of Mrs. Tingley's high executives in Sweden have recently resigned their posts. One of these was Captain von Grevers, head of the Stockholm branch of theosophists, and the other was Torsten Karlung, leader of the Gothenburg Theosophical sect.

Nya Dagligt Allehanda and other newspapers state that Dr. Erik Borgen of Helsingborg has been chosen head of the Universal Brotherhood and Theosophical Society of Sweden.

Miss Anna Wieslander, a well-known Stockholm society woman, head of the Stockholm circle. If Mrs. Tingley came here to reorganize her sect, she has apparently finished her task.

One reason for Mrs. Tingley's visit here was understood to be to erect a Raja Yoga school on the beautiful Island of Visingso in Lake Vattern, Central Sweden. But her friends say she has decided not to do this at present. Before the war Swedish theosophists raised about $25,000 for that purpose.

Reincarnation of Count.

The land was owned 300 years ago by Count Peter Brahe, one of Sweden's most famous nobles. Stockholm's newspaper says that Mrs. Tingley has asserted that she is a reincarnation of the Count and that on visiting the island some years ago she exclaimed dramatically: "Ah, my old home!" One effect of the newspaper campaign has been to pack the lecture halls where Mrs. Tingley has been speaking.

FAMINE CONTINUES TO ENDANGER RUSSIANS

Advent of Spring, With Bad Roads Everywhere, May Retard Shipment of Food.

Correspondence of the Associated Press
MOSCOW, March 2.—Russia is approaching her most dreaded season—the early spring—with the realization in Government circles that her first year of free trade under Communism has not filled her warehouses with supplies of food to tide her over until the next harvest.

With foreign aid, principally American, devoted largely to relieving the terrible distress in the Volga and Ukraine famine regions, Russia promises to be unable to feed the rest of her vast population during the spring and summer and, according to official Government predictions, even next year's harvest probably will be bad.

Test in Spring.

The early spring months, before the first harvest is in, and when the chief traffic vanishes along with the snow, will then make the highway impassable, will be the test, both for food and fuel. Even now, with the roads in good condition, Moscow, Petrograd and other large cities are short of food.

The Government warehouses may have enough to dole out to the Red army and favored employees for some months. The rest of the population is dependent on food brought in by traders.

Each spring for the past five years, however, a similar crisis has been met in some way. Foreign aid, grain sent abroad, is now hoped for but not confidently expected by the Soviet leaders.

Fuel Shortage.

The fuel shortage looms up even more prominently than the lack of food. The Donets basin, Russia's great coal fields, showed increased yields during the early winter when, by a special drive, food was secured for the miners. Now, the famine in the Ukraine and the general lack of food and transportation elsewhere, all have contributed to cut down coal production again. Without food the miners can't work.

Similarly in Siberia and Turkistan, according to the newspaper Economic Life, a lack of fuel is responsible for failure to move food to Central Russia.

Owing to the lack of supplies in Government warehouses, the number of persons rationed by the state has just been further reduced from 14,000,000 to 11,000,000, including the Red army. Only these 11,000,000 in all Russia receive the ration. All others are dependent on their own meager harvests, if peasants, or in what they can buy, if city dwellers.

AMERICANS SAID TO WANT CONCESSIONS IN ANATOLIA

Angora Newspapers Assert Capitalists Have Approached Kemal Pasha on Point.

Correspondence of the Associated Press
CONSTANTINOPLE, March 1.—Newspaper organs of the Nationalist Government at Angora assert that some Americans are among the capitalist groups who have approached the Government of Kemal Pasha to obtain concessions in Anatolia to exploit mines and forests, to obtain raw materials, introduce agricultural machinery and establish clothing and shoe factories.

The Minister of Public Works of the Angora Government has informed newspapers there that American capitalists have proposed to construct two railway lines—one from Samsoun to the Persian frontier, passing Erzerum, Van, and the other extending from Moscow to Bitlis. The offers, he said, had been accepted by the ministry, but not finally authorized.

Some of the mining concessions now sought by the American capitalists were granted by the Sublime Porte to nationals of France and Great Britain, but the Government of Kemal Pasha had annulled them.

Agents of European Governments here are anxiously watching the expansion of American influence in Anatolia, which they consider a serious menace to their interests.

BOY DROWNS AT HOOVER HOME

Nephew of Commerce Secretary Found in Swimming Pool.

By the Associated Press
PALO ALTO, Cal., March 24.—Walter Large, 5-year-old nephew of Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, was drowned today in a swimming pool at the Hoover home here during a family reunion. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, worked over him for three hours, but finally he was given up. The boy was found unconscious in the pool by servants at noon. It could not be explained how he had gotten in the pool.

As a result of the accident it was announced Hoover will cancel his engagements to speak at San Francisco Friday and Saturday. The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie Large of Monterey.

PRINCE LEOPOLD RUMOR REVIVED

King and Queen of Belgians to Visit Rome.

ROME, March 24.—Count Louis D'Ursel, Belgian Minister to the Vatican, has announced the King and Queen of the Belgians would arrive at Rome March 28 to visit Pope Pius XI.

The approaching visit of the Belgian King and Queen has revived reports of the possible engagement of Prince Leopold, heir apparent to the Belgian throne, to Princess Yolande, eldest daughter of the Italian sovereign.

BARBER AS WITNESS CONVULSES COURTROOM

August A. Kraft Shows Why He Considers Man, Accused of Killing Relative, Insane.

Testimony in the trial for the murder of Thomas E. Maguire, 27, railroad clerk, of 4561 Page boulevard of his mother-in-law, Edward Banks, at the Maguire home, May 27, last, was resumed in Circuit
Judge Hogan's court today.

The defense announced that it would introduce the opinions of two alienists that Maguire was mentally irresponsible and that the case would be ready for deliberation by the jury this afternoon.

Dr. Charles G. Chaddock, 3705
Delmar, the first alienist called by the defense, testified that he had examined Maguire on two occasions subsequent to the killing. Banks had concluded that he was tally deranged. In response to a hypothetical question embracing the circumstances surrounding the shooting of Banks the witness said that the murder undoubtedly was the act of an insane person.

The dignity of the courtroom was swept away by laughter, in which even the Judge and bailiffs joined, yesterday afternoon by the ludicrous antics of August K. Kraft, a barber.

EXPEDITION TO SEEK MONSTER UNDER WAY

Party From Buenos Aires Departs on Search for Strange Creature in Wilds of Patagonia.

By the Associated Press.

Buenos Aires, March 24.—Elaborate arrangements for the capture or destruction of the anachronistic creature reported to have been seen in an Andean lake have been made by the expedition which left last night for Patagonia under the auspices of the Buenos Aires Zoological Garden.

The members of the party are all well armed, carrying elephant rifles and lassos. A quantity of explosive is also being taken to mine the lake and thus scare out the monster—it plesiosaurus, glyptodon or megaraptor, as variously reported.

The zoo's taxidermist, taking embalming materials for use if the beast is killed. Another item of the expedition is a gasoline motor with which to propel the boat to be constructed on the shores of the lake.

Prof. Onelli, director of the zoo and who organized the expedition, has directed that if it fails to find any animals after six weeks' search, the party shall proceed to other parts of Patagonia. He said to a correspondent: "I am laughed at, but I am convinced that large and strange animals exist in Patagonia."

When Theodore Roosevelt visited Argentina he was presented with a fragment of hide picked up in Patagonia, with long hair still attached to it. The hide was about an inch thick and curiously reinforced beneath the surface with tiny rods of bone. It must have belonged to some huge animal recently alive. What was it?"

FARM INCOME AVERAGE, $465

Oregon Survey Results Regarded as Surprisingly Low.

CORVALLIS, Ore., March 24.—A surprisingly low income from 112 representative farms was averaged on his investment.

In 1921 according to results of a survey conducted by the Oregon Agricultural College.

An average of $465 from those farms scattered over 16 counties represents what the farmer received from the labor of his family in addition to his own and for the interest on his investment.

News of the Business World
By Wire to the Post-Dispatch

ATLANTA, Ga.—A movement to help the farmer out of his difficulties took form today with the announcement that the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, organized to further the cooperative marketing, had decided to incorporate with a capital of $100,000. This sum will be raised by popular subscription and the money will be apportioned among the several counties of the State, according to their banking resources.

Improved weather conditions this week have made it possible for the farmers to prepare ground for spring planting, and a sharp demand for farm implements indicates general activity in the agricultural districts of the Southwest.

Individuals in all walks of life in this region have come to the realization that personal efforts alone will insure better times. Keen competition is being manifested in all lines of business. The feeling regarding general business conditions daily is growing more optimistic.

The cold weather the early part of this week did no damage to the potential fruit crop.

MOTOR IMPROVEMENT STEADY.

DETROIT, Mich.—A survey of 25 of the automobile and accessory plants here this week tells the story of continued improvement which forms the gist of the reports of the manufacturers. The improvement began in January and has not halted. Several plants reached normal capacity production at the end of February, and now are turning out from 25 to 40 per cent more goods than ever in their history. This condition does not apply to all plants, yet many of the less fortunate companies are coming ahead steadily. Taking the industries of this city as a whole it is conservatively estimated that about 75 per cent of peak business is being handled.

Business men dealing in the rural districts of Michigan report that the condition of the farms is improving steadily. They are laying plans for increased acreage and are paying up notes which matured last fall. If crop and price prospects come anywhere near expectations, country bankers predict a flood of farmer buying about July 1. An evidence of the improvement in the rural area is seen in statements of bond houses that Michigan county banks are buying bonds for their own account for the first time in two years.

The industrial prospect for April is promising. With farmers coming into the market at harvest time, automobile men figure there is a possibility of a car shortage.

BUSINESS TOPICS.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Foreign commerce through this port in February increased more than 25 per cent in comparison with February, 1921, according to figures just made public here. The most noticeable improvement was in the Oriental trade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The new subsidiary of the Santa Fe Railroad, the Eldorado & Santa Fe, which has just been chartered, is scheduled to open up a rich farming district in Kansas which hitherto has been without a railroad. The branch will be about 40 miles in length, running from the main line at Strong City to Eldorado.

LIVESTOCK.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Packers are getting good prices for hogs in this district, although prices have slumped somewhat recently. A record production of pigs is expected this spring. Packers report the export trade outlook to be gloomy and collections only fair.

LEATHER.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Shoe and leather manufacturers recently have placed orders in this market for 22,500 oak barrels. Demand for upper leather is quiet.

HARDWARE.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—For the first time in months, the hardware trade is showing a material improvement. Pending of the fear of price cuts seems to have stimulated disposition to accumulate stocks among the retailers.

COTTON.

MANCHESTER, England.—The most cheerful indication of the cotton trade is the increased demand for mohair, shoddy and jute for Calcutta. The Indian market for print cloth has been hampered by the heavy charges of dyers and cotton printers.

DRY GOODS.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Distribution of wholesale dry goods for this year has been less than that for the corresponding period of 1921, but collections are improving noticeably.

GLASS.

PITTSBURG, Pa.—Decisions will be made at a conference in Washington soon on a standard classification and nomenclature for plate and window glass. Plans to simplify the window glass trade have been under the direction of the Bureau of Standards.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK.—The local rubber market is marking time to some extent in anticipation of announcement from London that rubber production would be sharply restricted.

STEEL.

CHICAGO.—The United States Steel Corporation is operating in this district at 69 per cent of capacity, with 15 of 27 furnaces in blast. Gary mills are running at 80 per cent of capacity, and the leading independent working at 80 per cent, expect to increase production soon. Four large railroads are about ready to place car orders.

HATS.

NEW YORK.—Operating prices of men's felt hats to the jobbing trade for fall delivery are reported to be 19 to 25 per cent less than those which obtained last year. Quotations range from $12 to $20 a dozen.

Man Kills Wife and Self.
By Associated Press.
HALIFAX, Ontario, March 24.
The police have found a large letter box in the rear of a barber shop in which Ward Capera murdered his wife and ended his own life yesterday.

It is the theory of the police that Capera thought his wife had mailed a letter through the box telling the police of his whereabouts and that he took the whole box to prevent the letter from reaching the authorities.

Steamer Collides With Schooner.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 24.—The steamer Metaphor, inbound from Cartagena, collided with the Boston schooner Charles A. Dean, off the light at Barnegat, N. J., last night, which was not damaged, but the schooner filled with water. The crew agreed to keep her afloat, however, and she made for the coast.

From the Shipping Platform to the Selling Platform

CUTTING the Cost of Distribution is one of the most vital problems in this period of Economic Readjustment.

Applied to this business it means shipping the shoes direct from the Regal Factory where the leather is cut, to the Regal Store where the price is cut to $6.80.

In other words it means returning to the policy that I adopted when I opened the first Regal Store twenty-eight years ago, that is, Factory to Feet, All Styles, All Leathers, with One Profit and One Price, from the Shipping Platform to the Selling Platform.

I think the Public have been paying too much for shoes. Yes, too much for Regal Shoes and all other good shoes and the High Cost of Distribution is a big factor in the High Cost of Living.

The first big cut in the cost of distribution of shoes was the elimination of the Three-Profit System—Manufacturer—Jobber—Shoe Dealer—Route to the Consumer.

The Regal Way, "Maker to Wearer," cuts out two Profits and is the shortest distance between two good reasons why you should wear Regal Shoes, i.e., Our Factory and Your Feet.

By producing our own shoes in our own factory—shipping direct and selling in our own stores—we make it impossible for any Middle-Man to meddle with the Price between the Shipping Platform at the Factory door, and the Selling Platform in the Regal Store.

Therefore, from now on we will sell the shoes we make in the stores we own. All Styles, All Leathers, All Sizes and Widths, with One Fair Profit and One Fixed Price, $6.80.

ONE DEAD, FOUR MISSING IN FLOOD IN KANSAS

Damage Estimated at Nearly $1,000,000 After Water Flows 10 Feet Deep in Burlington.

By the Associated Press
BURLINGTON, Kan., March 24.—Five persons are believed to have been drowned and the business section of this town is a wreck today as a result of a cloudburst which last night transformed Rock Creek into a raging torrent, which swept through the town. The water rushed against the rear of stores on Neosho street, crushing in the walls, sweeping counters, goods and fixtures before it and caving in the front of the buildings. The damage was estimated today at nearly $1,000,000. One body has been recovered and four persons missing are believed to have been washed away. These persons were trapped in their homes.

The body of Miss Oeltha Failing is the only one recovered. The missing are: Mr. and Mrs. T. S. McGee, Mrs. Henry Ramsdell and Mrs. Jacob Sheets.

Burlington today is without drinking water, gas or lights. Flood water was eight feet deep at Fourth and Neosho streets. So complete is the destruction of the stores and their contents that the town is facing a food shortage. Only two grocery stores escaped the flood, and outside aid will be needed. The Emporia Chamber of Commerce is organizing for relief.

One mile of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas track north of the town and two culverts are washed out. Trucks south of the river, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas are out.

Mud and mire cover the streets. In the flood waters came automobiles, showcases, overalls, store goods of all kinds.

All night people worked in boats by aid of lanterns rescuing marooned people. In several places it was necessary to chop holes in the roofs of houses to let the people out. The water stands six feet deep on a bridge near Neosho Rapids. The water came up so rapidly it carried away many head of livestock.

The high water from the small streams may cause the Neosho River to overflow below Hartford, and Burlington may face a new flood danger if the Neosho overflows.

EARLY TRIAL TO BE ARRANGED FOR OKLAHOMA GOVERNOR

J. B. A. Robertson and Former Banking Commissioner Charged With Accepting Bribe.

By the Associated Press
OKMULGEE, Okla., March 24.—District Judge Mark L. Bozarth has announced that an early trial will be arranged for Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, Fred G. Dennis, former State Banking Commissioner, and several Okmulgee bankers indicted after an investigation into bank failures in Okmulgee.

Judge Bozarth said that he would call a criminal term of district court probably within three or four weeks and would at that time set the cases on his docket. He pointed out that the defendants must be arraigned to enter pleas several days in advance of the trial.

The penalty prescribed by statute for accepting a bribe, with which the Governor and Dennis are charged in a joint indictment, is a penitentiary sentence not exceeding ten years, or $5000 fine or both. It also provides that the officer shall forfeit his office and be forever disqualified from holding public office in the State.

They were alleged to have received a $25,000 bribe from John H. Rebold, former vice president of the Guaranty State Bank, to deposit $150,000 in state funds in his bank and allow the institution to continue to operate after Dennis had found it to be insolvent.

Molder Believed to Have Taken Poison Specified Under Undertaker

August Elmer, 56 years old, a moulder, died at 8:45 a. m. today, after having been found unconscious on a bed in his room at 1974 North Fourteenth street, about 45 minutes earlier, by his sister, Mrs. William Barton, of the same address, who had heard him groaning. Police believe he took poison.

A note left by Elmer, addressed to his brothers and sisters, said he was taking his life because, after being out of work for a long time, he feared his small supply of cash soon would be exhausted. The note asked forgiveness and requested that his body be prepared for burial by a union undertaker.

BROTHER OF MAN MURDERED IN ILLINOIS HELD HERE AS BUGGLAR

Fred Heick May Be Unable to Attend Burial at Benton Next Friday

Because of his arrest here early today on a burglary charge, Fred Heick may be unable to attend the hanging, in Benton, Ill., next Friday, of a man who was convicted of the murder of Heick's brother. A newspaper clipping telling of the approaching execution was in Heick's pocket when he was arrested.

A burglar entered the home of Bert Langley, 807 Wright street, about 3 a. m., and groping about in a bedroom, placed his hand on the face of Miss Maude Langley, 18 years old. She screamed for help, and a man in a neighboring building telephoned for policemen. An emergency squad from the North Market Street Station found Heick in the vicinity of the house, and Lieut. Moran reported that Heick later confessed to him that he was the burglar. He got nothing from the Langley house.

WHISKER RACE ON FOR SACRAMENTO '49 SHOW

Male Contingent of Population Preparing for Display During Coming Week.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CALIFORNIA, March 24.—Whiskers, whiskers everywhere—and not a chin to scrape. The greatest whisker race ever conceived by man is on today in Sacramento. It will end in a whisker show during the week of May 23-28, and a prize of $43 will be awarded to the wearer of the winning beard. Length, appearance and luxuriance of growth will be the determining factors.

All of which means that Sacramento is preparing for a grand celebration of the days of '49, and the male contingent of here are whiskers have decided to wear real whiskers in emulation of the sturdy pioneers of the gold rush. The movement started and a few patriotic persons—but not it has been taken up by many. Youths with the first down of man's estate just sprouting upon their cheeks are arrayed against their strong-bristled elders. All Colors of Whiskers.

Red whiskers, gray, black and blonde are being met on every street corner as each "old-timer" squints an appraising eye at the hirsute growth of every other "old-timer" in this strange, new struggle for be-whiskered splendor.

And are the 150 barbers of Sacramento—the men of strop and razor-tearing their hair in despair at the sudden depression in the shave market? Far from such. Instead of getting 15 cents for a matinial chin scrape, they are charging anywhere from 50 cents to an "iron man" for daily whisker treatment.

See in Barber Shop.

"Let us show you how to raise your whiskers. We train them any style from the professor to the cow-puncher."

Curly Williams, the barber, was first to recognize the fortune which might ensue from expert whisker advice and this was the sign which quickly appeared in his shop. Hair tonics have gone to a premium. It takes good irrigation to make alfalfa grow. Hence the lavish use of liquid aids to whiskers.

Mirrors in front of shops are crowded each day by men who inspect the development of their beards with hopeful interest. Fastidious young men frequent Vandy Dykes, Smith Brothers' Blacks, and even imposing Lord Dundrearies are devoting under the watchful care of the whisker experts. Hundreds, however, have adopted no style, preferring to let 'em sprout to the four winds as nature directs.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PARCEL MOVEMENT IS REPORTED HEAVY

Railway Mail Service Head Cites Instance of Freight Car Filled With Individual Consignments.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 24.—Shipments of fruits and vegetables in great quantities by retail and wholesale merchants to all parts of the United States is increasing steadily, according to reports made to General Superintendent W. H. Riddell of the Railway Mail Service.

An illustration of the use to which the parcel post is being put by merchants, it was asserted by Superintendent Riddell that recently an entire freight car was loaded with individual cases of asparagus and shipped by parcel post rates. Such parcel, however, conformed to weight regulations, and it would not have been possible to ship the carload as a bulk, it was explained.

Department officials said there appeared to be no reason why sufficient numbers of crates to make up a half car or a carload cannot be shipped in the future as parcel post. Parcels of perishable nature, however, which are likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery, will not, it was said, be accepted for mailing. The rates for parcel post matter depend on the zone to which shipped and the weight of the package.

NEARLY KILLED IN STEAM WASHER

Man Finally Released From Tub Suddenly Thrown Into Gear.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Wash., March 24.—Frank Johnson, an employee of a local laundry, narrowly escaped death yesterday when a steam washing machine in which he was taking a bath after a fellow worker had left, was thrown into the gear and he became imprisoned in the rapidly revolving tub, submerged in scalding water up to his neck.
He was rescued when the owner of the laundry heard his cries and broke into the room.

SEVEN EXECUTIONS FOR COUNTY IN TWO MONTHS

Granville Bunch to Be Electrocuted at Knoxville, Tenn., April 11 for Murder of Wife.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Granville Bunch, who is under sentence to die in the electric chair at Nashville, April 11, will be the seventh prisoner who has been confined in the Knox County Jail or workhouse to be executed within two months. He will also be the eighth man electrocuted in Tennessee within that time.

Bunch was convicted of murdering his wife, Mrs. Brasilia Bunch. It was alleged that Bunch's wife had become estranged from him and refused to live with him, returning to the home of her father. Later the defendant demanded that his wife return certain jewelry and clothing which he had given her before the separation. These articles he piled in the yard and burned.

According to the evidence, Bunch followed his wife down the road and shot her in the back after an unsuccessful attempt to induce her to return home. When brought to Knox

County, he confessed to the crime before his electrocution and warned young men against "bad women and whiskey."

Johnnie Fields was electrocuted Feb. 18.

Otto Stevens, Tom Christmas, Charlie Petree and John McClure, convicted of the murder of George Lewis in the Anderson County woods, were electrocuted March 1.

Then Maurice Mayes, negro, paid the penalty March 15, on conviction of murder of Mrs. Bertie Lindsey, white woman.

About 20 attacks on women occurred beginning with the murder of Mrs. Lindsey, and about eight persons were killed by the mysterious midnight marauder.

Comptroller Nolte doesn't believe autos slide uphill
He So Declares After His Machine Twice Is Found Close to Fire Plug.

Comptroller Nolte still does not think the city should spend $2000 for signs to be placed on fire plugs, warning owners not to park automobiles too near them. He first announced this opinion several days ago, saying that automobile owners should know a fire plug when they saw it, and that anyone who did not know enough to keep his car away from such a plug should be benefited by a visit to a police court.

St. Louis Register Crenet called Nolte's attention to the position of Nolte's own own machine, which was standing almost against a fire plug on Walnut street, east of Twelfth. Nolte declared he had left the car at the proper distance from the plug and he sent a chauffeur to put it back in its place. This was done, but later in the day the Nolte machine was again resting chumily beside the plug, it was declared.

"The car didn't slide there by itself," Nolte remarked, "for the direction is uphill. If anyone has taken the car, we'll catch it up. I hope he has enjoyed the exercise. My opinion on the matter of signs is just what it was before."

Kenuckian Said to Have Been Arrested 175 Times for Violating Prohibition Law.

Tithing System Benefits Church.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 23.

The Sunday offering of the East Tenth Street Methodist Church here was swelled from its usual amount of about $175 to nearly $800 the first week that a tithing system was adopted, says Bishop F. D. Leete. Since then, according to the Bishop, the church has made financial strides indicated by an increase of $300 in the salary of its pastor, the Rev. George S. Henninger, and by the largest Christmas offering yet reported to the Centenary office in it, according to his friends.

It is said that, on the contrary, Bitzer persisted in his illegal acts, although they were slowly depleting his small fortune, and that while arrested only 175 times for violating the prohibition law, he was always a total abstainer.

Grievance Against Government.

When a young contractor just starting out in life, he was security for another contractor on a piece of Government work in the Louisville harbor. A flood on the Ohio River swept away the work, so the story goes, and Bitzer was held to his bond. This was said to have ruined him financially. Legal battles over the case for many years ended only in disappointment for Bitzer and he is said to have become reconciled to the justice of the Government's action.

Bitzer's first effort to retaliate came when he attempted to evade the tax on oleomargarine. For this offense he served a year in prison. When national prohibition came into being, Bitzer repeatedly violated the law, it is alleged. He was arrested more than 175 times, frequently convicted, but generally escaping with a fine. He, however, served several short prison sentences, but always in cells which he had fitted with modern conveniences.

Meals Sent Into Prison.

His meals were brought into the prison to him.

Despite the many conflicts he had with the police, Bitzer is said to have never become angered at them. The last time his property was raided, several months ago, and a large stock of whisky seized, he is quoted as having called, "Come back again, boys," as the officers departed.

Following his litigation with the Government, he is said to have preferred cash transactions always and seldom issued a check, although his business was voluminous at times.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 1.—A conventionalized figure of a young American has been proposed for adoption as a sort of patron saint for the new Armenian nation. The original suggestion to this effect was made in a prose-poem written by the celebrated Armenian writer, Sebuh Stephanian, and published in the Armenian weekly Shavag.

Copied and enlarged and framed in scores of Armenian communities in the Near East, his picture-phrase composition reads in part: "The patron saint of Armenia today is an energetic, active, athletic young person. He is rich, not only in purse but also in heart. He is our American uncle; his star is the emblem of his generous gifts. Thus there has been another star added to the starry flag of our American uncle, the Star of Armenia. We have bound ourselves as a nation to America, we have become in spirit an Asiatic state of the great United States of America."

The film on the teeth does not itself cause the decay of tooth enamel. It simply offers a harboring place for colonies of germs which produce the acids that destroy the enamel.

But the whole mouth, with its fermenting food and incubating temperature, is a harbor and breeding place for these tooth destroying bacteria. Merely to scrape away, or remove, the film on the teeth is a very small part of the necessary work of protection.

Chicago Bishop Leete adds that this is a time of financial depression.

WOMAN KILLS GIRL ON TULSA BUSINESS STREET

Mrs. Elizabeth Terrell Says She Had Warned Young Woman to Leave Her Husband Alone.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TULSA, Okla., March 24.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sherrill, 28 years old, who yesterday afternoon emptied the six chambers of a .32-caliber revolver into the body of Miss Hannah Novak, 18, who was seated in an automobile in the business district, is under arrest with her husband on a charge of murder.

Miss Novak died almost instantly, five shots having taken effect, and while many persons crowded to the auto to see the girl's body Mrs. Sherrill walked calmly away from the scene.

According to eye-witnesses, Mrs. Sherrill emerged from the Piermont Hotel, of which she is proprietor, a shawl which concealed her weapon dropped about her shoulders. Approaching within three feet of Miss Novak, who was seated in the rear seat of a car she had just rented for the afternoon, she leveled her revolver, fired the first shot and paused to reload the effect. Then stepping closer to the Novak girl screamed, she shoved the weapon close to the girl's body and fired the remaining five shots.

Struck Girl Over Head.
Then, according to Louis Zoller, merchant and witness of the shooting, Mrs. Sherrill, using her weapon as a club, struck Miss Novak on the head, just as the victim sank to the floor of the car.

Concealing her pistol beneath the shawl, Mrs. Sherrill recrossed the street and entered her rooming house, where she was arrested a few minutes later. Miss Novak was taken to a hospital, where she was found to be dead.

To Chief of Police George Blaine, Mrs. Sherrill readily admitted she had slain the girl.

"She broke up my home," she is said to have told the Chief. "I warned her to leave my husband alone and she did not, so today when I saw her with him I just shot her."

Harry Sherrill, the husband, was taken into custody shortly after the arrest of his wife. At first he denied acquaintance with the Novak girl. When he faced his wife at headquarters, however, he admitted the friendship had existed, but denied his wife's charges of misconduct.

"I told you not to kill her," he said to his wife, and explained to officers that he thought she "was blushing when she warned me about this girl."

Had Planned a Trip.
Miss Novak, who was unemployed, had planned a trip to Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Sherrill, according to the police, several years ago shot several times at her husband, wounding him seriously.

Miss Novak's father remarked that it was the first time he had seen his daughter in two weeks although he had talked to her, he said, over the telephone. Miss Novak had been living downtown, Novak explained.

JURIES RETURN VERDICTS FOR DAMAGES IN TWO AUTO CASES

Judgments of $10,000 and $3500 Obtained by Men Hit When Standing on Sidewalk.

Juries yesterday returned damage verdicts in two cases in which the plaintiffs were hurt by automobile when standing on sidewalks.

One of $10,000 was in Judge Falkenhainer's court for Henry Lechner, 2525 Minnesota avenue, against the Western Adjustment Co. Lechner was hurt May 1, 1921, at Michigan and Utah street, by being struck by the defendant's automobile, which had been driven on the sidewalk to avoid a collision with another machine.

The second verdict was in Judge Hartmann's court, where Henry Kreckel, 32 years old, 4754 Michigan avenue, obtained a judgment for $500 against Frank Reinholz, 4721 Sigel avenue, and John Graffe, 5642 Kingsbury boulevard, on account of injury received by him as a result of a collision between automobile owned by the defendants. The collision took place Feb. 13, 1921, at Michigan and Utica and Meramec street. One of the machines had turned over on the sidewalk when Kreckel and George Schwartz, 4022 Nebraska avenue, were standing. Schwartz was killed. His widow recently obtained a verdict for $10,000 against the same defendants on account of her husband's death.

SUMMONS FOLLOWS ALLEGED FAILURE TO PAY ALIMONY

Dr. J. Roy Compton Is Called to Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Cited for Contempt.

An order, returnable Tuesday, to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court, was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun against Dr. J. Roy Compton of 260 South Broadway, who failed to give bond for alimony when ordered to do so by the Court.

Compton, who was divorced by Mrs. Edna Marie Compton of 3714 Magnolia avenue, Oct. 26, 1921, was ordered to pay $15 a month alimony. When he became in arrears with his payments, an order was obtained Feb. 12, on motion of Mrs. Compton, to compel him to furnish $250 bond for the alimony by Feb. 12. This he failed to do.

The divorce was obtained by Mrs. Compton on the grounds of his attentions to other women. Compton has since married again. The new couple are children, James R. and Niel J. Compton, was awarded to Mrs. Compton.

To Chief of Police George Blaine, Mrs. Sherrill readily admitted she had slain the girl.

"She broke up my home," she is said to have told the Chief. "I warned her to leave my husband alone and she did not, so today when I saw her with him I just shot her."

Harry Sherrill, the husband, was taken into custody shortly after the arrest of his wife. At first he denied acquaintance with the Novak girl. When he faced his wife at headquarters, however, he admitted the friendship had existed, but denied his wife's charges of misconduct.

"I told you not to kill her," he said to his wife, and explained to officers that he thought she "was blushing when she warned me about this girl."

Had Planned a Trip.

Miss Novak, who was unemployed, had planned a trip to Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Sherrill, according to the police, several years ago shot several times at her husband, wounding him seriously.

Miss Novak's father remarked that it was the first time he had seen his daughter in two weeks although he had talked to her, he said, over the telephone. Miss Novak had been living downtown, Novak explained.

JURIES RETURN VERDICTS FOR DAMAGES IN TWO AUTO CASES

Judgments of $10,000 and $3500 Obtained by Men Hit When Standing on Sidewalk.

Juries yesterday returned damage verdicts in two cases in which the plaintiffs were hurt by automobile when standing on sidewalks.

One of $10,000 was in Judge Falkenhainer's court for Henry Lechner, 2525 Minnesota avenue, against the Western Adjustment Co. Lechner was hurt May 1, 1921, at Michigan and Utah street, by being struck by the defendant's automobile, which had been driven on the sidewalk to avoid a collision with another machine.

The second verdict was in Judge Hartmann's court, where Henry Kreckel, 32 years old, 4754 Michigan avenue, obtained a judgment for $500 against Frank Reinholz, 4721 Sigel avenue, and John Graffe, 5642 Kingsbury boulevard, on account of injury received by him as a result of a collision between automobile owned by the defendants. The collision took place Feb. 13, 1921, at Michigan and Utica and Meramec street. One of the machines had turned over on the sidewalk when Kreckel and George Schwartz, 4022 Nebraska avenue, were standing. Schwartz was killed. His widow recently obtained a verdict for $10,000 against the same defendants on account of her husband's death.

SUMMONS FOLLOWS ALLEGED FAILURE TO PAY ALIMONY

Dr. J. Roy Compton Is Called to Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Cited for Contempt.

An order, returnable Tuesday, to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court, was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun against Dr. J. Roy Compton of 260 South Broadway, who failed to give bond for alimony when ordered to do so by the Court.

Compton, who was divorced by Mrs. Edna Marie Compton of 3714 Magnolia avenue, Oct. 26, 1921, was ordered to pay $15 a month alimony. When he became in arrears with his payments, an order was obtained Feb. 12, on motion of Mrs. Compton, to compel him to furnish $250 bond for the alimony by Feb. 12. This he failed to do.

The divorce was obtained by Mrs. Compton on the grounds of his attentions to other women. Compton

RUINS THE HAIR

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, healthy, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will ruin your hair and ruin it if you let it go.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid soap; apply it at night when retiring; be enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips. By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely remove and entirely destroy every sign and trace of it.

It will take, too, that all itching and dryness of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid soap at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

BUDHIST FUNERAL RITES FOR JAPANESE HELD IN NEW YORKServices of Tatsuzo Kawame Attended by Leading Members of His Race.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 24.—The soul of Tatsuzo Kawame, chemist, was sped to Nirvana with his mortal remains for the benefit of a Buddhist of the highest order, by a priest of that ancient cult in the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, yesterday. Leading members of the Japanese colony in attendance at the rites were M. Fugita, "The I. P. Morgan of Japan," who came to the United States several months ago, accompanied by the chemist, to arrange the erection of a great chemical works with Japanese capital here.

Kawame died in the suite of the Japanese financier in the Commodore Hotel of pneumonia. He was 33 years old.

Fugita will speed back to Japan with the bronze urn containing the chemist's ashes and a small gold casket holding a lock of the dead man's hair and his finger nail trimmings for that purpose before April 10, it was estimated at Fresh Pond last night.

The subsequent gold casket will be delivered to the bride of Kawame by Fugita. His duty also is to reach her at the earliest moment and report the death of her husband with all its details and the funeral ceremonies of his cult, which insure him a favorable beginning on his journey to Nirvana.

Dr. Yamada, in the robes of a Buddhist priest, performed the funeral ceremonies accompanied by the soft booming of a gong. He placed the physical effects nearest to the dead in the golden casket, for the bride. They included a box of cigars, the last opened by Kawame, cigarettes and various small articles of personal use, which will be buried in Japan with the bronze urn containing the ashes.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK TO BEGIN BUILDING SOON

Architects Drawing Plans—
Necessary Resolution Now in the Senate.

The site for a proposed new Federal Reserve Bank building, on the north side of Locust street, from Broadway to Fourth street, having been cleared, a Post-Dispatch reporter today asked David O. Biagge, governor of the bank, when construction of the proposed building will be started.

"Architects are at work on plans and drawings now," said he, "and are expected to submit their ideas within the next 60 days. Legislation before Congress to require congressional authorization for building operations by Federal Reserve Banks is not expected to delay the work here, as a resolution authorizing the erection of a building in St. Louis is before the Senate and probably will be acted upon favorably before the year is out; plans are ready for the Committee on Public Buildings.

Work Hold Up by High Costs.

"We are not ready to give out any information concerning the plans, as changes may have to be made. Work might have been started a year ago but for the high building costs which prevailed at that time."

The 10-story Commonwealth Trust Building, at the northeast corner of Broadway and Locust street, and the adjoining four-story Pope Building, on Locust street, in addition to the building formerly occupied by the St. Louis Union Trust Co., at the northwest corner of Fourth and Locust streets, have been torn down, and all that remains to remind one that the half block ever was occupied by buildings is the concreted cellar, the reinforcements of which are being removed to make way for a deeper excavation to comply with the needs of a modern ornate structure such as the Federal Reserve Bank requires. It has been estimated that the new building will cost approximately $2,000,000.

The old buildings and their sites were acquired by the Federal Reserve Board in 1919 at a cost of $1,050,000. The purchase of the Commonwealth Trust building was made from the company of that name. The Pope building is named after the estate of Carolina Pope. The purchase price of the Commonwealth Trust building and ground was $450,000, and that of the Pope building and site $60,000.

For the St. Louis Union Trust building and site, together with a small strip of property to the north on Fourth street, $540,000 was paid. These two pieces of property were purchased from the trust company and the O'Fallon heirs.

All Alley Vacated by City.

A north and south alley which extended to the middle of the block between Locust and St. Charles streets, between the Pope building and St. Louis Union Trust building, was vacated by city ordinance, and as a result of the proposed building will have a frontage of 269 feet on Locust street, the same distance from the block from Broadway to Fourth street.

In return for the vacating of the alley the Federal Reserve Bank agreed to dedicate to the city a strip of ground 16 feet wide to lead into Fourth street west of the site for the new bank. This will care for traffic by establishing an L-shaped alley with exits at Fourth street and at St. Charles street. The frontage on Fourth street will be 161 feet and that on Broadway 65 feet.

Opening the Way for St. Louis

CLEAR the road for prosperity! The Frisco believes that the surest way to bring back business revival is to get ready for it.

Five miles of double track are now being constructed from Windsor Springs to Valley Park to expedite the movement of traffic between St. Louis and the Southwest. With these five miles completed, Frisco engines can haul to St. Louis 500 tons or 15 more cars of freight per train than at present—and all traffic will move more speedily.

$750,000 go into these five miles—one hundred and fifty thousand dollars a mile—the spending of which will benefit St. Louis. St. Louis workmen will do the work, and St. Louis will furnish the supplies.

The completion of this work gives the Frisco double track practically all the way between St. Louis and Pacific, thus contributing to greater speed and greater safety.

This work is a part of $2,000,000 to be spent by the Frisco during 1922 for grade elimination and double tracking. It is another big step in double tracking the Frisco across the state of Missouri.

The Frisco has set itself to the task of upbuilding the wonderful territory its lines serve. By so doing, it will contribute to the upbuilding of St. Louis. Forward St. Louis!

Fine Pitching by Shocker And Bayne Features Victory Of Brownies Over Dodgers

Defense of St. Louisans in First Game Against Major League Foes Stands Out, but the Hitters Fail to Crush the Enemy. Mound Men—Southpaw's Work Pleases Fohl.

By J. Roy Stockton,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., March 24.—Do you remember how the "gamboliers" used to scurry to the telephone and hedge their bets when they heard that Urban Shocker was going to do the pitching for the Browns? Well, something like that situation prevailed yesterday afternoon when it was whispered around Mobile that the twirling ace of the Fohlenmen was going to take a fling at the National Leaguers. And those who realize that every new season is something else again, breathed confidently when Shocker showed that his tuning of 1921 was still his own.

Then, after Shocker had thrown:

Dazzling curves past the impudent Brooklyn batters and had been hit for only two safeties in five frames, Shocker sent Billy Fohl to the hill. The tiny left-hander had a wild spell in the ninth, and allowed the Dodgers to score two runs, but in the four innings he tallied only one legitimate hit, which was broken off his delivery.

Bayne's effectiveness, therefore, stood out as the most satisfactory high light of the Browns' 4-2 victory. His left-handed shots were breaking at startling angles, and his control, except in the ninth when his supporting cast did not do its supporting very well, was excellent. He became a bit fussed; then, but soon settled again to his knitting and finished strong.

Such finishes in a few close games will give Bayne the confidence and poise which apparently are the only things he needs to make him a truly great pitcher. His work this spring leads Fohl, Leisheit, Austin and the Browns in general to believe that "big year" predicted for him is at hand.

Bayne Fans the Mighty Wheat.

Bayne began the sixth by striking out Bert Griffith, a slugging recruit outfielder obtained by the Dodgers from New Orleans. Ivan Olson and Jimmy Johnston were retired with ease and in the next frame Toney Griffith died on an infield grounder. Bayne was cutting the corners, making high ones with low ones, and the Dodgers had no chance to set themselves for one in the groove. Zach Wheat missed two terrific swings and then, after taking two balls, was foisted by a sweeping curve which broke sharply over the plate. Zach did not wait for the umpire to say "strike."

Hi Myers was having as much difficulty with Bill's slants when the pitcher uncorked a wild one, which hit him on the ankle. Unperturbed, Bayne faced Schmandt on a grounder to Sisler.

To start the eighth Sammy Crane sent a hopper toward short. Ellerbe bluffed Gerber for a moment, with the result that Gerber booted the ball. Bill lost control here and walked one man and then another, hitting the bases. Even then he would have escaped without trouble, but Niles muffed a ground ball, a run crossed the plate. On the next play Gerber snared a hot grounder behind second, stepped on the bag and threw to first for a double play, another Brooklyn run scoring. Hal Janvrin then batted for Tom Griffith and Bayne made a pretty play on the former Boston school boy's roller toward short.

One Real Hit Off Bayne.

In the ninth, with two down, Schmandt poled a double to left, the only real hit off Bayne. Crane then fanned for Bill's second strikeout of the inning, his fourth in the four frames.

It flew to Shorten in right and Schmandt's double were the only hits out of the infield while Bayne was swinging, which is a fair yard test of a twirler's efficiency.

Schmandt's double really was the only ball smacked with real force.

Succession of Breaks Against Browns All That Enables Brooklyn to Score

The game marked the Browns' first opportunity of the season to match their skill with that of another major league club. Defensively the Browns made an excellent showing. It required a concentration of "the breaks" to enable Brooklyn to score. However, the Browns did not show satisfactory power on the offense.

Of course it must be considered that they were facing the best pitching they have seen this year. Dutch Reaber began for the Dodgers, and the boy was bearing down on them almost as maddeningly as Artie Reiter had worked for his innings. Robinson sent in "Dandy" Vance, a lanky blond right-hander from New Orleans. Vance won 14 and lost about a dozen games for the Pelicans last year, and he is considered one of the pitching prospects of the season.

He has curves that break sharply with a wide sweep. His slants had the power of a sharp switch, but he had to do some sharp switching to call the balls and strikes. No better curves have been seen in Mobile thus far and it is probable that Vance's slants can rate with any in baseball. He also has a deceptive motion which makes base runners hug first. Several times Browns backed for the ball when Vance was throwing to the plate.

Evens Sister Fans.

In the three innings he worked he fanned three men. Sister and Seven each were fanned by him. George W. had his bat on his shoulder while the ball traveled down the middle of the plate. So it can be seen the Browns saw some pitching.

Rietter in Tobin's Place.

With the exception of Johnny Tamm, who reported ill after eating some disagreeable oysters, the Browns had their full strength in the field. With Shocker on the hill, though, with the exception of Tom Reiter, the one that will represent the Browns when they meet the White Sox in Chicago, Shioton took Tobin's place and made several nice catches. However, Tom's offensive strength was missed.

Brief Notes From the Browns' Camp

Shocker and Gerber worked smoothly together round second. The former is throwing beautifully and his holdup of hot grounders has improved greatly over that of last year.

Ellerbe made several smart plays, one being a three throw to first made on the dot, and after holding a man high up on the grass, Frank also kicked two singles.

Shocker always pleases. His best stuff of the day was a wide reach to complete a gobbler play. The hurried Brownie had to dash across the field to recover the ball and brought it down on the runner as the latter passed George on his way to the bag.

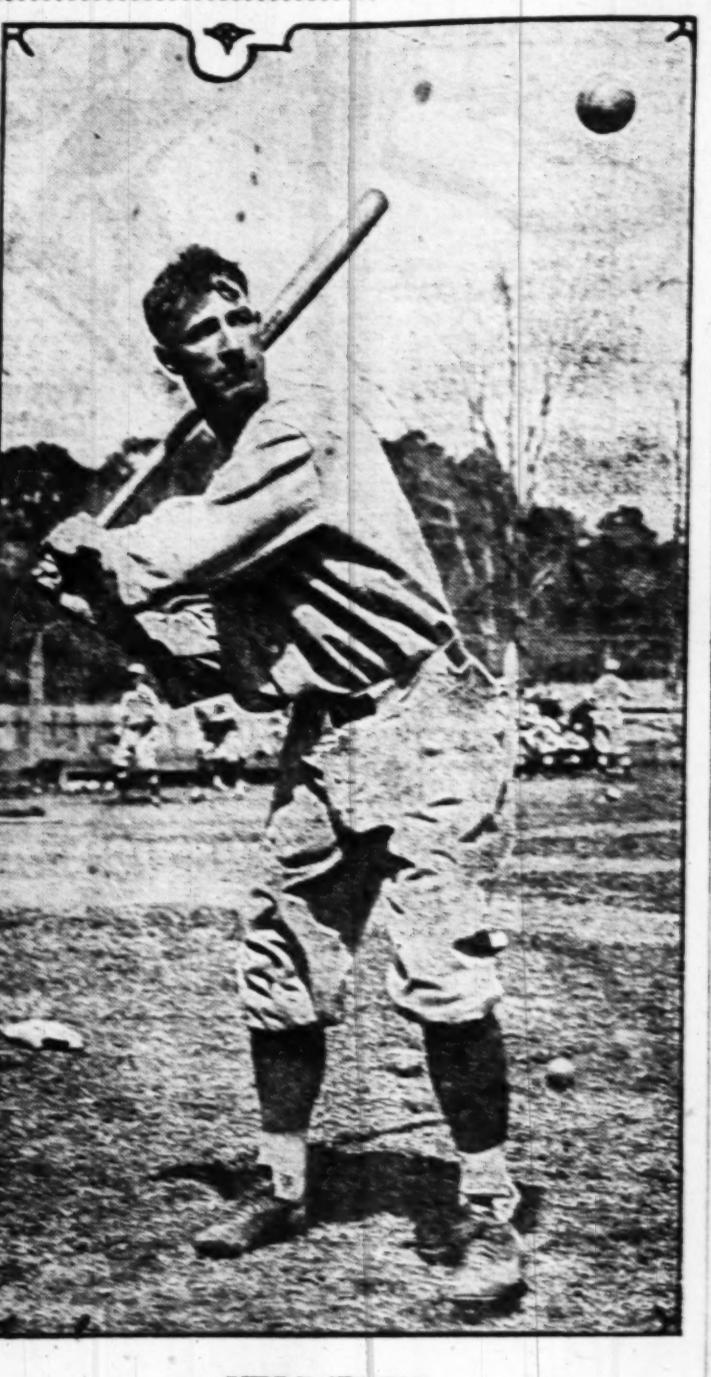

George also made a clean steal of third in the fourth inning and scored the first run of the game on Seven's single. Hank's second of the game.

Browns Win "Prospects."

The Dodgers have six new men on the roster who are ranked as fine "prospects." Vance is mentioned first. The other pitchers on the list are Sam Shatto, the right-hander from Saginaw. There are two catchers, Burney Hungling from Memphis and Hank Deberry from New Orleans. Hungling worked part of the game yesterday and made a good im-

City Raises Price of Public Links Lockers; Course Not to Benefit

THIS high cost of municipal golf in St. Louis took another leap upwards, this week, when the Park Commission voted to permit the announcement of an increase in prices of all lockers and dressing rooms in Forest Park. The increase amounts in general to 100 per cent of last year's price, about $30,000 of the sums charged golfers for the same service three years ago.

The notice which was signed by Park Commissioner Fred Papa, did not explain the reason for the advance.

The new scale of prices, compared to those of previous years follows:

1922 1921 1920

Locker (upper) ... $4.00 $2.50 $1.50

Locker (lower) ... 5.00 3.00 2.00

Dressing Room... 20.00 12.00 10.00

Receipt from this fund goes to the general park fund and are not applied to golfing courses upkeep.

It was also decided to divert the increased revenue partly be devoted to constructing new lockers.

COMMITTEE MUST OK PLAYERS' ELIGIBILITY

Policy Adopted at Meeting of Yale, Harvard and Princeton Undergraduate Newspaper Editors.

By the Associated Press
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 24.—Three undergraduate newspapers, the Harvard Crimson, the Daily Princeton, and the Yale News, have decided upon a common editorial policy designed to "correct the over-emphasis now placed upon football, which to a certain extent has spread to other sports as well."

According to an announcement published in the Crimson today, this policy was decided upon at a meeting of representatives of the three newspapers held March 8.

The plan, according to the Crimson, follows:

"There shall be no football practice organized under the supervision of either of the three colleges before the formal opening of college in each fall.

Investigation shows finally no uniformly good need to be now, football purposes. As a result, separate part match play can still serve the purpose." There hole course at Keene, one of the holes for an 18-hole match has been closed.

TOLEDO, O., March 24.—The last squad of St. Louis bowlers to compete in the American Bowling Congress tourney rolled their doubles and singles on the noon shift today. They all failed to land in the prize money in the doubles, but two will at least get back their expense money in the singles. Hard luck in running into a score of bad splits briefly tells the story of the St. Louis bowlers' poor showing.

The bowlers, John L. Parker, H. Parker, E. J. Edwards and A. Gutwein, 1002, S. Diringer and C. Hauseknecht, 1040; Joe Lachin and F. St. John, 1028; Schweiger and F. Ingraham, 1021; L. L. Loughran, 1004; and Frank, 1004.

Singles—W. Segers, 386; O. Pragert, 357; E. Parker, 447; F. Ingraham, 544; J. L. Parker, 518; F. Spies, 494; S. Nieringer, 549; C. Hauseknecht, 510; W. L. Parker, 509; Parker, 451; John Loughran, 549; H. Parker, 509.

By the Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24.—A plea by alumni to take larger part in supporting and bringing about better standards in athletics was made by Dr. L. L. Loughran, athletic director of the University of Minnesota, in an address here last night.

The alumni of all universities with but few exceptions, have never done its part in making sports," said Dr. Loughran. "Now there has come when they must take a hand if the standards such as those of the Big Ten are to be maintained.

"I can't believe that an American college would ever support professional athletics."

CONGRESSMEN UP TO ARMPITS IN PETTY GRAFT, BLANTON SAYS

Texas Representative in Address at Houston Defends His Acts in Congress.

ABOUT 350,000 NEW YORK TENANTS HAD TROUBLE WITH THEIR LANDLORDS LAST YEAR

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK, March 24.—A vigorous defense of his actions in Congress was made last night in an address by Representative Thomas L. Blanton.

"The Government has been grafted out of $800,000,000," he said, "and Congress cannot stop it. That is why we Congressmen are up to our armpits in petty graft, and the big fellow would tell us about it if we tried to stop their graft. I am unpopular in Congress because I try to stop these things."

An appeal for the open shop in American industry closed the address.

ST. JOHN'S METHODIST CHURCH WOULD RETAIN THE REV. DR. HOLT

St. John's Methodist Church official board has unanimously adopted a petition to the St. Louis Annual Conference of the Southern Methodist Church that its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, be sent back for the fifth year, when the conference meets in September. In the meantime, he has been heard in high places for Dr. Holt in the Southern Methodist General Conference, which holds its quadrennial meeting in May, at Little Rock, Ark., but St. John's Church wishes to retain him as pastor, and therefore takes this early action. The resolution was passed Monday night at a quarterly conference session.

Up to four years ago, it was the custom of the Southern Methodist Church to limit the pastorate to four years. At the last general conference, however, it was decided that, under unusual petition, a pastor may be retained for a fifth year, for a longer period. Dr. Holt is now in his fourth year at St. John's. He has done successful college work in the church, as well as the pastoral service which he has given. He has been president of the Church Federation, and is now at the head of that organization's executive committee.

MONEY AND CLOTHING TAKEN FROM EAST ST. LOUIS HOMES

Street of Men on Ends Bridge Carrying Woman's Suit and Silverware Pillows Raided by Burglar.

A burglar visited several residences in East St. Louis last night, obtaining money and clothing from some. He was frightened away from other places.

E. Probst of 1643 Kinsman avenue said that a milk bottle had been thrown through a side window, and that a man entered and stole a purse containing $100. An hour later Thomas Simpson of 1596 Kinsman avenue telephoned police headquarters that a man had entered his home through a rear kitchen window. Simpson locked the door between the kitchen and his room, and the man jumped out the window and ran. When the police were in the neighborhood, about 1 a.m., a burglar visited 1410 Missouri avenue reported that somebody had entered his home and stolen $8 from his trousers, which were hanging on a bedpost.

Elmer Rapp of 1401 Market avenue at 2 a.m. reported that he had entered his home through a rear window and stolen a quantity of clothing. He saw the man as he was leaving the building, but did not follow him. At 4 a.m. a burglar visited St. Louis and was arrested on Ends Bridge on his way to St. Louis. He had a woman's suit and some silver knives and forks. He said he found them. He is being held for investigation.

Driver Arrested After Crash.

Henry Rapp, 2836 Utah place, was arrested on a charge of carelessness driving after his automobile had撞入 a United Railway work car standing on the tracks at Vandeventer avenue and Gratiot street, at 2:35 a.m. today. Mrs. Gertrude White, 26, of 4044 Delmar boulevard, who was riding with Rapp, suffered a fractured left thigh and George Adams, 26 years old, who also resides at the Utah place addressed, suffered a cut over the right eye. Miss Florence Milesinger, 1819 North Newstead avenue; Mrs. White's 5-year-old daughter, Frances, and Rapp, were uninjured.

To Put On Good Firm Flesh and Increase Weight, Strength and Energy— Try This Simple Home Prescription.

Since the discovery of an amazing food factor called "Vitamines" thousands are now using this simple home prescription. Try it for ten days and you will find the results.

While the almost-miracle-like results produced by Vitamines, even the most learned scientists are yet unable to explain their exact nature. We do know, however, that if taken with organic Nuxated Iron, nervous and run-down, in some cases even for years, often quickly gain surprising strength and energy, put on good firm flesh, wonderfully round out face and figure and become more alert and vigorous both physically and mentally. By helping to create millions of new red blood cells,—Nuxated Iron taken after meals unquestionably increases the power of the body to transform lifeless food matter into living cells, flesh, muscle and tissue, and Vitamines taken before meals mix with your food and act as a powerful nutrition substance.

To prove to you the surprising results which should be quickly obtained with Vitamines, we have made with druggists in this city to give you A LARGE DOLLAR PACKAGE OF GENUINE YEAST VITAMINE TABLETS ABSOLUTELY FREE WITH YOUR PURCHASE.

SWISS BUTLER IS REMOVED

Taken From Psychopathic Ward Pending Decision on Sanity.

NEW YORK, March 24.—August Probst, the young Swiss butler who charges that he is being railroaded out of the country because he had been in love with a Pittsburgh society girl when he worked at the Rolling Rock Club, Ligonier, Pa., yesterday was taken from the psychopathic ward at Ellis Island to await the action of a special board of inquiry for the immigration service. He is still held at the island.

Probst is to be removed in accordance with the order of Federal Judge Knox, before whom a writ of habeas corpus was heard last Tuesday. At the request of the Judge, the board will decide whether Probst, who admits deserting from the liner Olympic shall be deported on the ground that he is mentally incompetent and likely to become a public charge.

Armstrong's Linoleum for Every Floor in the House

The insurance company took no risk with this floor

THE Metropolitan Life Insurance Company wanted a floor that would be silent and comfortable and would look well.

Since fine rugs were to be laid in these offices, the architects chose a floor that would serve as an impressive setting for them.

They chose a floor with every one of these desirable qualities—Armstrong's Linoleum. It was the best and least expensive floor-comfort insurance they could buy. Cemented down firmly over builders' deadening felt, Armstrong's Linoleum is a solid, permanent floor that never needs expensive refinishing.

If you are planning a building of any kind, discuss the matter of Armstrong's floors with your architect, contractor, or with any good linoleum merchant. We shall be glad to send him data and specifications.

MURDER WITNESSES REFUSE TO TELL OF KLAN, ARE JAILED

Police Commissioner and Business Man at Austin, Tex., Decline to Answer Grand Jury Questions.

DECLARED TO BE IN CONTEMPT OF COURT

Incident an Unexpected Development in Investigation of Killing of Chauffeur Near Klan Hall.

AUSTIN, Tex.—An unexpected development and possible obstacle in the investigation of the killing of Peeler Clayton, taxi driver, occurred here when J. D. Copeland, City Police Commissioner, and F. G. Reynolds, business man, refused to answer certain questions concerning the Ku Klux Klan when brought before the grand jury.

Although they were taken into the grand jury room on three separate occasions and questioned, they maintained their original position that to answer the questions might incriminate themselves. Notwithstanding they were offered immunity by the grand jury, they still refused to answer the questions. They were then taken before District Judge James Hamilton and each fined $100 and sentenced to remain in jail until they answered the questions.

Application by their attorneys on their behalf was immediately made to the State Court of Criminal Appeals for a writ of habeas corpus. This application is now pending and will be acted upon in a few days.

Klan Inquiry Ordered.

In his instructions to the grand jury Judge Hamilton directed that body to investigate the unlawful activities of the Ku Klux Klan. The killing of Clayton occurred several weeks ago. He and two companions were riding in an automobile through an alley running by the hall where a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan was being held. They were fired upon and Clayton was killed.

Upon complaints sworn out by John E. Shelton, former County Attorney, several well known business men of Austin were arrested, charged with the crime, the allegations being that they had belonged to the Ku Klux Klan. Several days later three local police officers and a prohibition enforcement officer were arrested for the killing of Clayton. They confessed that they had had a running fight with Clayton and his two companions in the alley and asserted that the men were bootleggers.

The matter of investigating the Clayton killing came before the grand jury that is now in session and it was to the question as to the identity of the leaders of the local Ku Klux Klan, the names of some of its members and other information which Copeland and Reynolds refused to answer or give.

Judge's Decision in Case.

When that part of Judge Hamilton's decision directing that Copeland and Reynolds be taken before the grand jury again and questioned was reached, counsel for witnesses notified the Court that they would enter a waiver, stating that the witnesses refused to answer the questions on the grounds that it would be incriminating to themselves and that they could not be forced to answer such questions in view of the Constitution. Judge Hamilton's decision, in part, reads:

"On the statement of the District Attorney, acquiesced in and agreed to by the Court, offering and granting the witnesses, J. D. Copeland and F. G. Reynolds, and each of them, complete and absolute immunity from any and all prosecution and punishment for any crime about which they or either of them might be liable under the law for testimony given before the grand jury of Travis County, Tex., and on the further statement of the District Attorney and grand jury as to the necessity of such a waiver in order to develop certain criminal offenses now pending before the grand jury, the Court is of the opinion that public justice demands that said witnesses answer the questions propounded to them by the grand jury."

"And having failed and refused to answer said questions under oath, for the reasons given herein by the Court, and under the law as laid down by the Court of Criminal Appeals of the State of Texas, said J. D. Copeland and F. G. Reynolds, and each of them, are adjudged to be in contempt of this court and are fined in the sum of $100 each and both ordered committed to the county jail of Travis County, Tex., in custody of the Sheriff of Travis County, until they do truthfully answer said questions."

"If the members of the Ku Klux Klan cannot be ascertained, the grand jury may just as well discontinue its investigation and adjourn," said District Attorney J. B. Robertson to the Court just before the decision was rendered.

MOTHER OF FOUR METHODIST MINISTERS DIES AT 80

Texas Woman's Husband Was Circuit Rider of That Faith in Pioneer Days.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WACO, Tex.—Mrs. Mary E. Marcus, 91, mother of four Methodist preachers and a woman with 119 descendants, is dead here. She was born in Alabama and had been a resident of Texas for a half century. She was the widow of the Rev. E. R. Marcus, pioneer Methodist preacher of Texas, and had been a member of the Methodist Church for more than four-score years. She was the mother of 13 children, 11 of which are living. Four of these are boys who are now filling Methodist pulpits in Texas.

Mrs. Marcus came to Texas when the State was young. She was often at home with her family for a long time while her husband, who was a circuit rider, preached the gospel to scattering communities over a great part of the State. At times she accompanied her husband and thus became acquainted in many parts of Texas where she was known as "Mother Marcus."

Of her direct descendants, most of whom attended the funeral, there are 11 children, 52 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren. All of her children, 18 grandchildren, and one great grandchild are married. They are all members of the Methodist church. Of the 119 descendants all but one who is over 10 years old are members of the Methodist church. One granddaughter—by marriage breaks the line of Methodism. She is an Episcopalian.

THE SALESMAN
HOW SHE CAN ALWAYS BE AT HER BEST
By Doris Doscher

THERE is a whole army of girls whose efficient salesmanship in their particular manner can make our day of shopping a pleasure instead of a trial. Since this occupation is filled so extensively by women, the girl behind the counter surely needs a word of advice to protect her physical being—so that the hours spent in the store shall not prove a handicap either in her advancement in the business world or in her future as a successful home-maker.

From the standpoint this occupation entails long hours of standing, confinement indoors, subjection to artificial light almost continuously and other drawbacks that often cause a girl after a few years to break, and the employer of today has learned that the physical fitness of the employee is worthy of serious consideration.

Working along these lines, most of the large department stores have installed a recreation room, where the medical examiner can be daily found trying not only to detect disease, but to keep the physical standard of the girls up to the highest percentage possible. They need not wait until after hours to get relief from the aching tooth or the splitting headache, or worry about the doctor's fee for examining feet that if neglected would unfit them in a very short while for their work.

It is the duty of every girl to care for herself not only to keep herself fit, but to lessen the fatigue of the day by proper understanding of her problem. If it is true that the stenographer must guard against improper posture, it is equally true that the girl behind the counter must learn how to stand.

I asked the opinion of a well-known physician regarding this line of work. He gave me a long list of causes under consideration where various physical defects may be a part or entirely to the years that the girl had spent in the store, but he ended with this remark: "This would not be true if they would only learn to stand correctly." I thoroughly agree with him, because when perfect balance is maintained you can stand for hours without the slightest fatigue, especially as the work usually permits you some exercise. Walking to and fro from the shelves to the counter, and the way you lift things from the shelves to the counter, can greatly aid in exercising your body correctly.

The Foot Problem

There is one problem that gives the girl in the store more grave concern than any of the others we have considered, and that is the foot problem. It is most noticeable in the new employee, the girl who has been suddenly changed from a sedentary occupation to a job which requires much standing or walking. Being on your feet continuously, unless you enjoy robust health, is very liable to cause the feet to swell, to become calloused, to induce the lowering of the arch or cause a weakness that shows itself in the ease of turning of the ankles or in pains along the calves of the legs.

Sometimes long before pain gives its first warning, the girl would notice these symptoms by the incorrect way in which you walk. You will go to one of two extremes, either toeing in or pushing the feet out, as one does on skates. This affords a little

Above, at the left, is shown the wrong way to stand at your work. At the right the correct standing posture is illustrated.

The small picture illustrates an exercise that will help you avoid foot troubles.

The lower photograph shows you how to relax.

GINGER MILK SHERBET

COOK for 10 minutes half a cupful of sugar, two cupfuls of rich milk and a scant half cupful of chopped preserved ginger with a little of the syrup. Cool; add a quarter of a cupful of orange juice, two tablespoons of lemon juice, and freeze in three parts ice to one of salt. Serve in sherbet cups, sprinkled with chopped candied orange peel.

UNCOMMON SENSE

THE POISON OF PREJUDICE.

By JOHN BLAKE.

PREJUDICE—prejudging—a man or a race, or a religion or a people, is one of the evil forces which must be eliminated before there can be real progress.

It is a force that has existed in the world since its beginning. It is strongest in the animal kingdom—as witness the prejudice of all dogs against all cats—or all monkeys against all parrots.

Senseless prejudices these, because the cat has nothing the dog can desire, nor are any of the customs of the parrot inimical to the happiness of the monkey tribe.

But we cannot expect reasoning in dumb brutes. We can expect, and sometimes do, in human beings, though our expectations are frequently disappointed.

Most prejudices are originally inherited. But few of us do anything to eradicate them. Indeed, they often grow as the individual develops in other respects—in intelligence.

Political prejudices are gradually breaking up.

In England radicals and conservatives found it necessary to recognize the ability in each other and to unite to save the country from destruction in the war.

But in Ireland prejudices that were centuries old survived, and not until they are destroyed can there be peace on that hapless island.

In America there is still a prejudice against the Jews which makes many members of a great race uncomfortable and unhappy, and robs those who are prejudiced against them of their valuable co-operation.

It has been prejudices among the races in Central Europe, dating back to the beginning of civilization, that has kept nations in a turmoil and produced destructive wars that spread almost around the world.

As long as men are born hating other men, there will be war. Until men learn to form estimates of other nations and other races based on their own thought and intelligence understandings.

Prejudices are inborn, and hard to be rid of. But great leaders do not have them. Lincoln was free from them. So is Lloyd George. When all men forget them we can really begin to talk hopefully about universal peace.

Fashion News Notes

PARIS.—Though skirts are decidedly long, the Parisienne has by no means lost interest in her ankles and feet. Heelers and low styles grow more interesting every day. There is a clever Russian boot of soft emu-set leather with a wide band of emu-trim around the top which comes just below the knee. This Russian footwear is mounted upon slashed patent leather, slippers with high heels, which are far less clumsy than the somewhat stubby Russian vamp. Another new device is a three-inch band of scarlet or dent de lion yellow moire ribbon tied tightly around the black satin dancing slipper, a few inches above the toe.

LONDON.—All the debutantes are wearing kid or jadie hats whether for actual sports occasions or for the afternoon stroll. The styles are simple, mere Russian turbans with a few soft folds of the leather itself. The hats of kid are as pliable as satin and may be crushed onto the head with that swanky nonchalance beloved by the clapper. One springlike turban is of pale jade kid with no other ornament than three or four cleverly arranged kid folds across the slightly pointed front. This hat was worn with a white silk and wool sports suit.

NEW YORK.—It has occurred to some bright soul that in a spring breeze the inside of a cane is as important as the outside. Accordingly, the newest canes of velour or crepe have linings in a contrasting color and, by way of extra added attraction, a deep Paisley border just above the inside hem. Sometimes the border is flowered, and now and then one sees a border of gold or silver scrollwork embroidered inside the cane to match some fugitive glint of gold or silver on sleeve or collar.

PALM BEACH, Fla.—Among the novelties here is wavy lace used to decorate sports cases and costumes. Insertion on capes turns an otherwise simple garment into one well worth a second glance, and for use on sports costumes it seems singularly appropriate. The popularity of lace this season made it inevitable that sooner or later even the sports clothes would succumb to its lure. Wool lace, in a matching or contrasting shade, is the only lace that can appear on a sports costume without making the costume ridiculous.

To avoid the foot strain already referred to, be mighty careful what kind of shoes you wear, and if you do use an arch supporter, remember that it is only a temporary measure and that you must discard it as soon as you have strengthened your feet by the proper standing and by exercises that I have given you.

If you start your day by traveling in a crowded conveyance and then walk right home again in crowded buildings and go back home again in crowded houses, you have had no chance for outdoor exercise. So the master of your recreation is of serious moment. Plan whenever possible in your busy day at least one hour for a good brisk walk. Also the deep breathing exercises, by an open window, will help clear the system from the poison inhaled. Especially is this true of the winter season when the buildings are heated and colds are prevalent.

LONDON—Imitation lace is the fashionable trimming of new serge and jersey sports. The imitation lace is more fashionable than real lace because at present lace is dyed to match the gown and to dye a piece of real lace would be sacrilege. It is strange that serge rises suddenly into prominence among the crepes and silks, but serge of a very fine and supple texture is desired for afternoon costumes except on the more formal occasions. Imitation point Venise, Rosalie point and Spanish laces, dyed green or navy or sand to match the frock, form exceedingly wide borders or big motifs. The serge is cut away under the lace in the case of motifs and a silk underlining to match the gown takes its place.

EIGHTH INSTALLMENT.

WONDERED daily if father would strike me—I should not have cared if he had—I was too wretched. But he did something which was almost worse—he sold me.

"We've only got each other," he said, still whispering. "Don't be hard on your old father, Marjorie; don't ruin your old father!"

It was a sickening scene! Even now I can hardly bear to write about it. I freed myself from him with disgust.

"Give me till tomorrow to think it over!" I begged—"just till tomorrow!"

His face cleared; he mopped his brow.

"There's my good girl," he said. He rose, and I made hurriedly for the door, thinking he was going to kill me; but he only walked across the room, turned up the nose, turned his back on me, and walked out.

My mother! Suddenly memory came back. I seemed to be a child once again, standing transfixed with terror at the dining room door of Nasco House, staring across at my beautiful mother as she lay on the table, her unbound hair streaming over her edge.

She had loved him! Nancy had told me many times that theirs had been one of the very few Heaven-made marriages of which one heard. MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

(One of a series of short funny stories by the celebrated American humorist which appear daily in the Post-Dispatch on this page.)

THE SIMPLEST OF REMEDIES.

In Owen County, Ky., there formerly resided a self-ordained oracle on all questions pertaining to subjects of farming, horse raising and hog guessing. To him one day, as he sat on a horse block facing the public square at Owenton, came a pestered young husbandman from the knobs along the Kentucky River with this question:

"Uncle Hamp, how am I going to get rid of sassafras sprouts? The pesky dern things have just about took an old field of mine. I've tried choppin' 'em out and plowin' 'em under, and burnin' 'em over, but they keep on gittin' thicker and thicker all the time. It seems I can't git rid of 'em noway. What would you advise?"

"My son," said the wise man, "I don't want to brag, but I reckon you ain't made no mistake in comin' to me—you're stuck on to one man that's fitten to advise you in this here matter of anybody on this earth is. Man and boy, I've been givin' the subject of sassafras sprouts my earnest attention for goin' on 60 years. And it's my deliberative judgment that when sassafras sprouts starts to takin' a farm the only way you kin git rid of 'em is jest to pack up and move off and leave 'em."

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE TREND OF THE DRAMA.
Time was, when a play was a little bit raw,
The clergy called in the police;
And a magistrate said, when the drama he'd read,
That its public production must cease.
And the manager cried, with his hand on his heart,
That the show was unjustly tabooed;
The law, he declared, was condemning high art
At the whim of some prurient prude.
However, he baulked the sees— that were bad,
And found the taboo was a peach of an idea.

Today when a play doesn't fully comply
With the standards the moralists set,
And no one sees fit to go gunning for it,
The managers worry and fret.
We ought to be turning the people away—
The thing is so croak;
Unless the police come and stop it today,
And get people coming, we're broke!"
For the show of the present must be pretty raw
Before it attracts the stern frown of the law.

Tomorrow, if things run along as they are,
No matter what's put on the stage,
The public won't feel that its vulgar appeal
Is worthy of vicious rage.

Instead of requesting the cops to step in
And drag all the actors to court,
They will pass up the drama of skum life and sin
For a play of a wholesome sort.

And the over-frank dramas will never succeed.

For the lack of the ad that they all of them need.

OUTBURRANKING BURBANK.
Congress is something of an agricultural wizard. It scatters free seeds and raises votes.
